AIR RAIDERS BOMB GIBRALTAR

LAST MINUTE RACES BASEBALL WAR NEWS

GIBRALTAR, July 5 (AP)—Airplanes attacked Gibraltar three times without success today in the first air raids of the war on this British naval stronghold. The raids started in the early hours. Searchlights went into action. Several bombs were dropped but all fell into the sea and there were no casualties and no damage. In the third raid a plane attempted a dive-bombing attack but was driven off by shore batteries.

Nazis Warn U. S. on Monroe Doctrine

WASHINGTON, July 5 (INS)—Germany in a formal diplomatic note to the United States today rejected the Monroe Doctrine for the Western Hemisphere as untenable and warned American republics not to take part in European controversies. The Nazi government, in its note, informed this country it regarded Secretary of State Hull's recent warning that the United States would not permit territory in the Western Hemisphere to be transferred from one European power to another as "without object."

Secretary Hull, announcing receipt of the German note, said he considered it useless to address any further communication to the German government on this subject. At the same time, he reiterated his warning that the United States would not allow transfer of any European colonies in the western world from one country to another.

FRANCE BREAKS ALL BRITISH TIES

BERLIN, July 5—The French government at Vichy, headed by Premier Marshal Petain, officially notified Germany today that it has severed diplomatic relations with Great Britain.

Prior to this official notification, the German official news agency, DNB, reported from Geneva the Petain government had broken off relations with London as a result of the Anglo-French naval battle off Oran, Algeria.

London dispatches said the French charge d'affaires protested to the foreign office today over the British action against the French fleet.

The protest was submitted on behalf of the Petain government by Roger Cambon, who has been in charge of the embassy since Ambassador Charles Corbin resigned last week.

ON VERGE OF WAR

British authorities said the fact Cambon called at the foreign office in his official capacity to submit the protest showed that up to that time at least diplomatic relations continued between the French and British governments.

Neutral circles, however, expected the Petain government to break off relations with Britain and possibly even formally declare that a state of war exists between the former Allies as a direct result of the British action in sinking and seizing French navy units.

Should this transpire, neutral circles anticipated the British government would immediately recognize the French national committee in London, headed by Gen. Charles de Gaulle, as the only French government.

Informed British quarters, contradicting the view of neutral circles, regarded immediate recognition of de Gaulle's committee as the government of France highly improbable.

They pointed out that his mission, as now constituted, is purely

'No French Ships Leave Alexandria,' British Navy Edict

ALEXANDRIA, July 5 (AP)—British sources here today described the situation of the French fleet at Alexandria as "in abeyance" and said:

"We do not know what will happen or when the French will make a decision. We only know that no French ship shall ever leave Alexandria to surrender to the enemy."

Naval sources emphasized the French are "deeply affected" by the fighting between the French and English warships yesterday at Oran and Mers El-Kebir, but the British declared they had the situation here "well in hand."

British naval circles expressed regret over the action taken against the French at Oran and the hope that no such incident would occur here.

BOTH FIGHT ITALIANS

Yesterday both British and French ships here blazed away in unison at raiding Italian planes.

French commanders here have been advised formally by the British "they cannot leave the harbor to fall into the power of the German conquerors of France."

The British said the London admiralty had offered "fullest facilities to all French officers and men at Alexandria who wish to continue the war."

This was interpreted here to mean that the French would receive pay equal to British seamen if they continue to fight.

All French officers and crewmen remained aboard their vessels today. No British had yet boarded the French ships.

MEN WANT TO FIGHT

British naval sources declined to say whether French Vice-Admiral Godfroy, commanding the units at Alexandria, had been given any definite time to make his decision.

It was understood the alternatives to fighting with the British were the same as those handed the French at Mers El-Kebir.

Usually well-informed sources meantime declared that the majority of the French officers and seamen want to fight on with Great Britain against Italy and Germany.

It was understood the British are not pressing the French for a decision at present, confident that whatever happens no French warship ever will leave Alexandria to fall into enemy hands.

The British and French warships lying in the harbor had a community of interest in that they both were objects of the attacks by Italian planes yesterday in which 15 persons were killed and seven wounded.

BRITISH, FRENCH MAY FIGHT SEA BATTLE JUST OFF U. S.

WASHINGTON, July 5 (INS)—Prospect of a battle between French and British navy units in American waters was foreseen today when it was learned in Washington a British destroyer squadron was blockading the French-owned West Indian Island of Martinique.

On the island, according to reports reaching diplomatic circles in Washington, is a large shipment of American-made warplanes purchased by France as well as sizeable gold stocks.

Protecting the French property, it was said, was a submarine flotilla flying the French flag.

WAR AT U. S. DOOR

A sea battle near Martinique would bring the war to the very front yard of this continent. The tiny island lies at the juncture of a line drawn southeastward from Puerto Rico to the 60-degree latitude mark, then directly south to the Venezuelan coast. (Martinique is well within the Western Hemisphere. It is, in fact, even more westerly than are the Maritime Provinces of Canada.)—Editor's Note.

At the same time, reports from abroad that the French government had severed diplomatic relations with Great Britain were causing grave concern in official American diplomatic quarters. It was pointed out that both France and Great Britain have island possessions in the West Indies.

French commanders in charge of the submarine flotilla at Martinique are believed to be loyal to the Petain government, now under German domination, according to authoritative French sources here.

The British naval guard has been established to prevent shipment of the gold or transfer of the planes to France, where they undoubtedly would fall into German hands.

Meanwhile, it was learned the Petain government's command to the French navy to return to French ports for neutralization or surrender to Germany was issued despite vigorous representations made by Count Rene de St. Quentin, French ambassador in Washington.

The ambassador was said to have told his government that surrender of the French fleet to Germany would arouse anxiety and disapproval in the United States because Americans would regard the action as strengthening German naval power.

Sweden Grants Rights to Nazis

STOCKHOLM, July 5 (AP)—Sweden today granted Germany the right to move supplies, including war materials, over Swedish railways to Norway.

German soldiers on leave also may cross to and from their posts and home via Sweden by special trains, a foreign office communique said.

"Hostilities having ceased in Norway," said the communique, "the restrictions caused by war relative to transit to and from Norway have been removed. Therefore, merchandise of all kinds can be shipped over Swedish railways."

German troops now occupy virtually all of Norway.

Daladier, Aides On Missing Ship

LONDON, July 5 (AP)—The German-controlled Brussels radio, in a broadcast heard here today, reported the 15,363-ton French liner Massilia, which left Bordeaux June 16 with former French Premier Edouard Daladier aboard, was overdue and missing.

The broadcast said former French Minister of Education Delbos and former Minister of the Interior Mandel also were aboard.

French Sailors Flock To Fight for Britain

LONDON, July 5 (AP)—French warships have been arriving in British ports since June 19, two days after the French government announced it was seeking an armistice.

Today streets of British naval ports still are filled with French seamen who have elected to fight on—most of them unmarried men.

Disarmament in F.D. Peace Essentials List

HYDE PARK, N. Y., July 5 (AP)—Five objectives which must be realized before permanent world peace would be assured were listed by President Roosevelt today, and first among them he put freedom from fear, and that, he said, means disarmament.

The discussion, during a press conference, came at a time when Europe is fighting a bloody war and the United States is embarking on a vast defense program under the President's personal direction.

This was how he listed the objectives:

1—Freedom from fear, so that people will not be afraid of being bombed from the air or attacked by another nation. That, he said, means removal of the weapons which cause fear, or disarmament.

2—Freedom of information. That is important, Mr. Roosevelt asserted, because the whole country must be able to get news of what is going on in every part of the country and in every part of the world, without censorship. He said that it meant not freedom of the press alone, but freedom of every means of distributing information and that without it there could not be a stable world.

3—Freedom of religion. Under democracies, the President said, this freedom has been maintained fairly well, but not in countries living under other systems of government.

4—Freedom of expression. A person should be free to voice his opinions, the President said, so long as he does not advocate overthrow of his government.

5—Freedom from want. That must be accomplished, Mr. Roosevelt declared, by removal of cultural and commercial barriers between nations.

The outlining of these objectives, the Chief Executive said, raises the question of "whether we are going to seek the five freedoms" or give them up, or encourage, by lack of opposition, those nations which have removed them in order to achieve a somewhat more efficient government.

He admitted frankly that what he termed the corporate state or government, as maintained in Italy, Germany and Russia, was more efficient than a democracy.

Roosevelts Silent On Guard for Baby

"The baby is fine."

That was the only answer tall, smiling John Roosevelt would make today to inquiries about his month-old son, Haven Roosevelt, and the three secret service agents who stand constant guard on his Nahant home.

One of the secret service men, who arrived three weeks ago, immediately after Mrs. Roosevelt, the former Anne Clark, returned from the hospital with her baby son, said the guards were a precaution the government took with all Roosevelt children.

But there was no explanation for the "Do not enter" sign stretched across Swallow Cave rd., the only land entrance to the Roosevelt home on Nahant Point.

Fear for the baby boy, born at Richardson House on June 5, is believed to be the reason for the constant vigilance, although when asked about a threat letter, John Roosevelt smiled again and said:

"We're not worried about the baby. He's gaining weight every day, but he's still not big enough to be photographed, or answer third term questions."

The agents are on duty in eight-hour shifts, day and night.

The baby is the 11th and youngest grandchild of President and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. He was named Haven in honor of his maternal grandfather.

He is the second child born to the young couple. The first died at birth on June 2, a year ago.

FIN. COM. WITNESS CONTRADICTS WIFE

With only one brief flareup, in contrast to the stormy scenes of Tuesday and Wednesday, the Finance Commission today resumed its hearing into charges of graft in connection with the granting of a permit for an East Boston slaughter house.

Testimony in direct contradiction to that by his wife on Wednesday was given by today's first witness, Matthew Racich of Sumner st., East Boston, who said he was an unsuccessful applicant for an East Boston slaughter house license.

Although his wife, Mrs. Belle Racich, testified that she told him she knew the names of two men, one of whom wanted $3000 for the license and the other $8000, Racich himself denied that she ever told him this or that he had asked her about them.

DENIED LICENSE

Racich did testify, however, that Philip Greenberg, original owner of the disputed slaughterhouse in Lewis st., East Boston, told him that "they" paid $3000 when "they" got the license.

It was his understanding, Racich said, that Greenberg was referring to the license granted last May for the Lewis st. place, and in connection with which granting City Councilor James S. Coffey of East Boston made his charges of graft.

Racich said that when he sought a license for a permit for a biulding in Summer st., adjoining his public garage, he was told by Dr. Patrick H. Mullowney, then in charge, that it was impossible to grant a license for that location.

The only money Racich said he expended was $35 which he gave to a man named Monahan, whom he understood to be a lawyer in Winthrop. Of this sum, $25 was for the license fee and $10 for Monahan's fee.

He has not been repaid, the witness said, because he told Monahan to pay him back when he got the money.

"I believe the poor fellow is up against it," Racich explained.

Under cross-examination by Councilor Coffey the witness said that someone who gave his name as Frank Burke called the garage last night and said he wanted to speak to the night man. Racich did not know the conversation, he said.

GIRL AIDS 2 BANDITS IN STORE ROBBERY

While Boston police flashed their descriptions to cruising cars, two bandits, one of them armed, and a pretty girl accomplice, wearing a pink dress, today followed up an unsuccessful Back Bay holdup by robbing a Roxbury chain store manager of $55.

Subsequently a woman wearing a pink dress approached Patrolman Robert W. Greenwood, of the Roxbury station and insisted on giving herself up for police questioning.

Greenwood took her to the station and arranged for her transfer to the Back Bay station. There police reported the lady in pink appeared to have had too many pink ladies or some other alcoholic beverage.

The two men are believed by police to be the same pair who held up a Malden gasoline station attendant earlier in the day, obtaining $12.

Martin Healey

In both store holdups the two suddenly flashed a pistol on the clerks when they turned to get a package of cigarettes they asked for.

They made their getaways in a stolen car which police later found abandoned behind the Boston Lying-in Hospital. Fingerprint experts are examining the car for possible clues.

The first storekeeper held up was Max Brier, 32, of Lester st., Dorchester, proprietor of the New York Delicatessen in Burbank st., Back Bay. Brier received a slight scalp wound when one of the men slugged him with the revolver as they fled.

As police hunted them, the pair held up the First National Store in Marcella st., Roxbury, obtaining $55 from Manager Martin C. Healey, of Florence st., Roslindale.

In the earlier holdup the pair robbed Donald Blake, a Broadway, Malden, gasoline station attendant of $12 after threatening to shoot him if he made an outcry.

Fire-Periled Ship Puts Into Port

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., July 5 (AP)—The freighter Panamanian, threatened by a fire in her hold last night as she moved down Chesapeake bay from Baltimore to an undisclosed destination, put into Newport News today for minor repairs.

The Baltimore Ocean Transport Co., Norfolk agents for the vessel, said she would be in Newport News for about 48 hours.

Curley Planning Convention Trip

The largest crowd of New Englanders ever to attend a national Democratic nominating convention will travel to Chicago next week on a special train, it was announced today by Chairman William F. Brophy of the Massachusetts convention delegation.

Among those who will be aboard the special train leaving here on the afternoon of July 13, are all of the Democratic members of the Boston City Council, who have engaged an air-conditioned chair car.

Former Gov. James M. Curley, recently injured in an automobile accident, has tentatively engaged a private car for the trip. His improvement has been so rapid that it is now thought he will be able to attend the convention with a number of guests.

U. S. Sues Two State Firms

Alleging breach of contract in sales of surplus U. S. army goods in America after an agreement to sell them only in foreign countries, federal officials here brought suit today for $409,830.17 against two Massachusetts firms.

One action to recover $211,284.17 was against the Newbury Manufacturing Co. The other, for $198,456, was against the Belmont Knitwear Co.

U. S. Atty. Edmund R. Brandon, through Asst. U. S. Atty. Edward O. Gourdin, set forth the government claim.

Fire in Milk St. Subway Station

Smoke and confusion filled the Washington st. end of Milk st. subway station today, as firemen pushed through gaping crowds to put out a fire that had smoldered all night in ventilating ducts.

Fire blackened water cascaded down the walls and ceiling of the station. As the water reached electric cables the lights went out.

Subway officials said that smoke had drifted from the air shafts since last night, but only today were they able to locate the blaze, that started from spontaneous combustion.

FATAL N. Y. FAIR BOMB FILLED WITH SHRAPNEL

NEW YORK, July 5 (AP)—The bomb which exploded and killed two detectives at the New York World's Fair was powerful enough to have blown out a wall of the British pavilion where it had been planted, police reported today.

Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine said the bomb was of the "dynamite shrapnel" type and weighed about 20 pounds. It exploded in the open after detectives had carried it from the pavilion and were prying into the bag in which it was carried.

While police were rounding up all known radicals in an unprecedented effort to track down those responsible for planting the bomb, the Detectives Endowment Association offered $1000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the guilty.

Throughout the night and this morning, at least 75 persons were taken to headquarters for questioning. Most of them had been listed by police previously because of public utterances indicating they were not in sympathy with the democratic form of government.

All were asked about their activities during the past week, particularly on Wednesday and yesterday; most were released promptly after the checkup.

Valentine said the bomb had been loaded with pieces of wire spring, nails and other metal fragments.

A tenpenny nail, he said, was found in a piece of flesh of one of the detectives blown 400 feet away. A piece of wire spring was pulled out of the cheek of John J. McLaughlin, chief of the fair detectives, who was standing by as the bomb exploded.

The bodies of the two victims were so filled with metal fragments which might be vital in the investigation, Valentine said, that the X-ray may be used to find all of them.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK, July 5 (ENS)—Police late today questioned a man identified as Caesar Kroger, 38, of New York City, in connection with the World's Fair bombing. Kroger, an alleged German-American Bund member, faced charges of violating the Sullivan (anti-gun carrying) law.

Bayrd Wills Aides Cash, Wife Residue

Leaving his entire estate to his widow, Mrs. Blanche Simpson Bayrd, the will of Frank A. Bayrd, wealthy publisher of the Malden Evening News, was filed today in Middlesex Probate Court.

Mrs. Bayrd is also named executrix and she and the First National Bank, the State Street Trust Co. and the Malden Savings Bank are trustees.

Although she receives the entire estate, the will makes numerous suggestions, including suggested gifts for employes of the Malden Evening News.

One is that David P. Rossiter, city editor of the News, be provided $1500 a year for life, and that if his wife survives him, the wife, Mrs. Martha E. Rossiter, also be given $1500 a year during her life.

$75,000 TO HOSPITALS

Gift of $25,000 to the New England Deaconess Hospital of Boston Hospital, Boston, for a free bed, to be known as the Blanche S. and Frank A. Bayrd bed.

Gift of $25,000 to the Colchester County Hospital of Truro, N. S., for maintenance of free bed to be known as the William and Margaret Simpson bed.

Gift of $25,000 to the Children's Hospital, Boston, for a free bed to be known as the Blanche S. and Frank A. Bayrd bed.

Establishment of 10 scholarships of $200 each for graduates of Malden high school.

Funds of $5000 each to the Massachusetts Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, to the Malden Home for Aged Persons, and to the Malden public library for purchase of travel, history and biography books.

It is suggested that Harold H. Harding, Mary G. Smith, Leslie R. Trevett, Thomas C. Kenney and George R. Paquet, also employes of the Malden News, be given $500 a year each during their lives, and that each employe of the News, including those already named, who have been employed on the paper and associated with Editor Bayrd for 15 years be given $1000.

The suggestions also include the following:

A gift of $150,000 to Boston University School of Liberal Arts for establishment and maintenance of a department, including a chair, of American literature, to be known as the Blanche S. and Frank A. Bayrd chair.

$5000 TO LIBRARY

These $5000 funds would be known as the Blanche S. and Frank A. Bayrd funds.

Another $5000 to the library for purchase of books, to be known as the Adelaide Breed Bayrd Fund.

A fund of $200 annually for help and maintenance, particularly at Christmas time, for the needy poor of the villages of Carrsbrook and Lower Economy at Truro, N. S.

A fund of $200 to be expended annually for maintenance and improvement of the Maplewood Methodist Church and parsonage.

Also it is recommended that the residue of the estate go to the Adelaide Breed Bayrd Foundation for purposes of this institution, founded in 1927 by Editor Bayrd in memory of his mother. On each anniversary of her birthday, Feb. 24, sums are distributed to worthy local charities and organizations, regardless of race, creed or color.

FORT DEVENS BOUND—In large groups, as the one above at the North Station, 500 candidates leave for Fort Devens to engage in a one-month military course under U. S. Army supervision. The course which candidates must pay for themselves, consists of physical training, drills and the handling of men, arms and equipment. Entire cost for course is $50, and program is nation-wide.

RECRUITS START TREK FOR DEVENS TRAINING

Groups of 50 or more men, representing the 500 candidates for a one-month military course under regular army supervision, began their trek today to Fort Devens as part of a nation-wide preparedness program—and nobody minded the $50 cost asked by the Federal government.

Three trains left North Station filled with man ranging from ages 25 to 50, some of whom paid their own expenses and transportation from Vermont in order to make the special trains to Ayer, where Fort Devens is located.

The training period runs from today to Aug. 3 and consists of physical training, drills and the handling of men, arms and equipment.

Antonio Foti, 19, and Joseph Marotti, 25, both of Rutland, Vt., said they both left "good summer jobs" in order to take the course and that their combined expenses would be more than $125.

The army requires that candidates pay for all transportation, food and overhead.

"We don't mind," said Foti, "It's little enough to ask to make ourselves ready to be of use to America."

Marotti, a garage mechanic, had three bags and a set of golf clubs.

"I brought along the clubs," he explained, "just in case."

He added that swinging a golf club would keep his arms "always in shape for handling a rifle."

Prominent individuals who have volunteered and will leave for the encampment this week were State Senators Mason Sears of Dedham and Chandler Bigelow of Beverly Farms, the Rev. Frank McKenny, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, New Haven, and Charlie Devens, one-time pitcher for Harvard and the New York Yankees.

3 Bund Leaders Go Free on $1000 Each

NEWTON, N. J., July 5 (AP)—Three German-American Bund leaders were released today in $1000 bail each on charges of inciting racial and religious hatred. Bail was furnished by Gustav Elmer, national Bund treasurer.

G. Wilhelm Kunze, acting national leader of the Bund; August Klapprott, camp manager and president of the New Jersey Bund, and Mathias Kohler, a Bund officer and trustee, had been arrested yesterday at an Independence Day rally at the Bund's Camp Nordland, in Andover township. Before being released they were questioned by New York police about the bombing at the World's Fair yesterday.

Hull Will Run With F. D., Say Democrats

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—With the presidential election exactly four months off, Democratic leaders were hustling preparations today for their party's July 15 convention amid increasing indications that President Roosevelt would break tradition and accept a third term "draft."

Republicans, too, were thinking of casting an old custom aside as their 1940 standard bearer, Wendell L. Willkie, considered plans in New York for a three-man strategy board in lieu of a single campaign director.

Talk of a Democratic ticket headed by President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull continued to overshadow speculation by a few party members that the chief executive might turn down the nomination at the last minute.

CONFUSION FEARED

High officials based their prediction of a Roosevelt acceptance partly on the assumption that an eleventh-hour declination might turn the convention into confusion from which it might be difficult to recover in the ensuing campaign.

Others mentioned besides Hull as a Roosevelt running mate include Senator Byrnes of South Carolina, Supreme Court Justice Douglas of Connecticut and Washington State, Vice-President Garner, Senator Lucas of Illinois, Paul V. McNutt of Indiana, Federal Security Administrator, Speaker Bankhead of Alabama, and House Leader Rayburn of Texas.

Should the President decide not to seek a third term, leaders are fairly well agreed he will endorse Hull. This logically would turn the Vice-Presidential nomination toward a far western man to offset the selection by the Republicans of Senator McNary, or to an easterner to balance Willkie's New York residence.

But Democratic chiefs say geographical considerations are of little consequence these days, since the brunt of the campaigning is up to the presidential candidate.

With the vanguard from the Democratic committee headquarters ready to depart for Chicago Sunday to complete arrangements, Congress plans to recess Thursday for the duration of the convention.

F. D. Losing Ground, Wheeler Warns Party

WASHINGTON, July 5 (INS)—Declaring that President Roosevelt is rapidly losing political strength because of his foreign policy, Sen. Wheeler (D.) of Montana today warned the Democratic party that it must adopt a strong peace plank in its 1940 platform or face defeat.

Wheeler, back from a swing through the Midwest, also declared that President Rosevelt's coalition cabinet "has done more to weaken the President than anything else he has done since he has been in office."

The Montana senator, who has threatened to bolt to a third party if the Democratic party becomes what he terms a war party, added:

"There has been a tremendous drift away from Mr. Roosevelt because of the sentiment that he is going to take us into war. That's been accentuated by his appointment of Mr. Knox and Mr. Stimson to his cabinet."

3 Tech Experts Fish for Fog on N. H. Mountain

MT. WASHINGTON, N. H., July 5 (AP)—Three men sit atop scenic Mt. Washington and hope for cloudy weather—because they want to catch some fog in "bottles." They are conducting experiments on how rain forms and why it falls.

A good "catch" is six quarts in an hour.

Prof. H. G. Houghton of Massachusetts Institute of Technology is directing the expedition, assisted by Robert Cunningham and Alan C. Bemis.

They are using an apparatus designed by Prof. Houghton—a galvanized steel cylinder, two feet in diameter and four feet long, on which each end is open.

Inside the cylinder a motor-driven fan draws the fog against a stainless steel screen. Once the fog is "bottled," the three begin their analysis with chlorides, sulfides and other ingredients.

Autoist Is Held In Boy's Death

Accused by police as the driver of the car which struck three Waltham youngsters, killing one instantly and seriously injuring the othre two, Herbert McGuigan, 48 of Drove st., Waltham, was held in 1000 today in Waltham district court on a charge of manslaughter.

McGuigan was arrested at his home by Waltham police.

The dead boy was Marvin E. Brooks, 10, of Dix st. In serious condition at Waltham Hospital are York Wallace, 14, and Harry, 11, his brother.

Judge Cunniff held McGuigan for hearing July 27.

It was the first fatal automobile accident in Waltham in 235 days.

N. Y. Suspect in Vineyard Murder

OAK BLUFFS, July 5—Abruptly reversing the trend of their investigation in the murder of Mrs. Clara M. Smith of Boston, state police detectives today gleaned Martha's Vineyard for information concerning a New York visitor known to have sought the friendship of elderly women.

Moxie Awards for Good Deeds Told of in News

A case of 24 bottles of Moxie will be given daily to some man or woman whose name appears in the news columns of the Boston Evening American.

Each day the editor of the Boston American will select one news story in which some person has played a prominent part by some good deed, some act of public service, or achieved some noteworthy honor.

That person will receive a case of Moxie. Arrangements for the rewards have been made by Frank M. Archer, president of the Moxie Co., and the executive staff of the Boston Evening American.

One day a person may be chosen who has saved another's life. Or the award may go to some student, boy or girl who achieves honors, scholastic or athletic. Again, an award of a case of Moxie may go to some woman whose good deeds have been told in the Boston American.

At the end of each week a list of winners will be published with a brief resume of the reason of the awards.

WILLKIE MAY PICK MARTIN FOR CHIEF

NEW YORK, June 5 (AP)—Wendell Willkie went into an important conference today with a special 12-member sub-committee of the Republican National Committee out of which will emerge his presidential campaign organization.

Details of the set-up and the personnel of a triumvirate board of strategy probably will not be announced by Willkie until he has conferred in Washington Monday with his running-mate, Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, and other Republican leaders.

MAY NAME MARTIN

Samuel Pryor, national committeeman from Connecticut; Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, House minority leader and permanent chairman of the Philadelphia convention, have been mentioned among others as possibilities for the campaign manager's post.

Willkie himself has given no indication as to his choice. The other two members of the three-man board will be the chairman of the Republican national committee to direct the regular party organization and a man in charge of independent groups who will be Willkie's personal representative on the board.

POST FOR HAMILTON

Regardless of whether John D. H. Hamilton would be chosen to succeed himself as national chairman, party leaders seemed convinced he would be charged with an important campaign post.

The sub-committee which meets today is headed by Walter J. Hallanan of West Virginia and includes the following other national committeemen:

EDGERTON CANAL CHIEF

WASHINGTON, July 5 (INS)—President Roosevelt today nominated Col. Glen E. Edgerton of the U. S. Army Engineering Corps to be governor-general of the Panama Canal Zone, replacing Governor C. S. Ridley, who has resigned.

4th Fatalities In Record Low

Only one fatality, the death of a Waltham child who was hit by an auto, married the Independence Day celebration in Greater Boston, a check of auto and fireworks accidents revealed today, although New England's death toll was set at six. This was an all-time low for holiday tragedies.

A "safe and sane" Fourth as far as fireworks went, at least 128 persons met violent deaths throughout the country. There were only two fireworks fatalities, one in Colorado and one in Maine. Automobile accidents killed 63 and 35 drowned.—Editor's note.

FRANCE, BRITAIN BREAK; WAR NEAR

a non-political military organization.

BRITAIN DOUBTS BREAK

Spokesmen for the French national committee pointed out the organization would have to be reconstituted to include political leaders in order to obtain British recognition as the government of France.

At late as 1 p. m. (8 a. m. E.D.T.), it was stated authoritatively, there was still no confirmation in French or British official circles that Petain's government had severed relations with Britain. London circles said they doubted authenticity of reports that Petain had taken this step.—Editor's note.

An announcement by DNB, German official news agency, from Clermont-Ferrand, France, seat of the French government, said Gen. De Gaulle had been informed he would be court martialled.

PROTEST TO U. S.

Premier Petain is expected to reply to British Prime Minister Winston Churchill for what the Berlin press termed "Churchill's cowardly raid on France's fleet."

News of Petain's intention to issue a statement came in a dispatch from the new seat of government at Vichy, France, which added that the premier would outline France's future attitude toward Britain.

Another dispatch from Vichy said U. S. Ambassador William C. Bullitt had been informed by French Foreign Minister Paul Baudouin of the British naval attack on French warships "in words of the utmost indignation and strongest protest."

It said Bullitt had been asked to convey this protest to President Roosevelt, "apparently in the hope that Roosevelt will use the moral and political influence of the United States in order to prevent further British attacks contrary to international law."

Berlin newspapers labeled Churchill the instigator of the British naval action. The Zwoelfuhrblatt used the caption "Butcher of Europe" over Churchill's picture, while a red-ink headline proclaimed "Blood Bath in Oran."

The French government's severance of relations with Britain was called "the only thing that any government with a feeling of decency and regard for its political existence could do" by German authorized sources.

These circles pointed with professed satisfaction to what they termed the comment of the entire civilized world branding as a crime the action against the French fleet.

Since an official text was not in their hands they declined to comment on the statement of Chairman Key Pitman of the United States Senate foreign relations committee that "every patriotic American citizen" would applaud Churchill "upon his wisdom and courage in preventing use of the French navy by Hitler."

Hundreds Drown As French Ships Are Destroyed

LONDON, July 5 (INS)—Hundreds of French sailors went down with their ships in the battle between British and French naval units off Oran, Algeria, the London Daily Sketch said today.

The paper added that some of the French naval officers and men detained at English ports gave the Nazi salute and shouted "Heil Hitler" when they were led from their vessels.

2 Malden Workers Caught in Cave-In

Suffering from shock, as well as cuts and bruises, two city workers were treated at Malden Hospital after being buried alive by the cave-in of a water department ditch in Whitman st., Malden, today.

Walter Derry, 36, of Sherman st., and John Tallent, 45, of Laurel st., both Malden, were the victims as other workers scrambled to safety, and firemen from nearby Edgeworth fire station arrived for the dig out.

FRENCH CLAIM FLEET DEFIED 'STAB IN BACK'

GENEVA, July 5 (AP)—A French admiralty communique published in the press of territory not occupied by the Germans stated today the French battleship Bretagne was blowon up, and the battleships Dunkerque and Provence and the flotilla leader Mogador set on fire during the battle with the English fleet yesterday at Mers El-Kebir.

The communique, which agreed generally with the facts given the British House of Commons yesterday by Prime Minister Churchill, added that the six-hour ultimatum did not give the French fleet time to weigh anchor before the British opened fire.

FRENCH ADMIRAL'S REPLY

"Vice-Admiral Gensoul replied (to the British ultimatum) there could not be a question of the French fleet joining the British fleet or being scuttled and that he would meet force with force," the communique said.

"Gensoul added that the first fire from the British fleet would have the practical effect of putting the entire French fleet against Britain—a consequence which he knew Britain did not desire."

France, the communique declared, "indeed would never have considered delivering to any power a fleet which had not been conquered."

Official French assurances of this, it said, has been given to Churchill and A. V. Alexander, first lord of the British Admiralty.

"STAB IN THE BACK'

"The French admiralty has the painful feeling that the misfortunes of France left English rulers unmoved, they thinking only of becoming masters of the French fleet which must remain French or perish," the communique continued.

"The French navy did not, in any case, deserve to be stabbed in the back on the order of Churchill who, last winter, implored the French admiralty to lend its principal forces to protect Canadian ships because the British admiralty's force had no longer necessary means."

Nazis Cite Sea Losses of Britain

BERLIN, July 5 (INS)—German aerial and submarine attacks on British shipping which sent thousands of tons of vessels to the bottom were announced by the German high command today.

"German submarines recently have scored considerable successes against England," said the war communique.

"A submarine commanded by Lieut. Cmdr. Liebe sank 84,000 tons of shipping. So far in the war his submarine has sunk a total of 85,000 tons.

"Another submarine sank 21,043 tons and still another sank 31,000 tons, including five control steamers.

A British Air Ministry communique today said that five German submarines were attacked by British warplanes within five days last month and in each case oil patches were seen on the surface after the attacks—usually considered evidence that a sumbarine has been sunk.—Editor's note.

"British planes, protected by low clouds, again penetrated Holland and Belgium and northeastern Germany. They also penetrated northern and western Germany during the night, but did not attack militarily important objectives."

BRITISH BAR COAST TO PUBLIC

LONDON, July 5 (AP)—The public today was banned from entering any part of the south coast County of Sussex, a large part of the County of Hampshire, including the big naval base of Portsmouth and the important shipping center of Southampton.

The banned area also includes the Isle of Wight, opposite Portsmouth and Southampton, and a small part of the County of Dorset in which is situated the Portland naval base, raided yesterday by German bombers.

The home office order, which takes immediate effect, prohibits visits to many popular seaside resorts on the Sussex coast.

French Get New Warning on Ships

many of whom are anxious for British citizenship promised by Prime Minister Churchill.

Thousands of others, primarily married men anxious for the safety of their wives and families, came to Britain with their ships and are in camps awaiting repatriation.

This also is in keeping with Churchill's promise.

The first French arrival was crowded with sailors—far more than were needed to man the ship. They had been collected from various French ports.

BRITISH SEIZE SHIPS

Warships seized in Britain include vessels that fled Cherbourg before the Nazis took that French port and came to Portsmouth. They are at secret anchorages with British navy parties aboard.

It has been disclosed that at one of the two big British southern bases where vessels were seized, boarding parties were led by the commander-in-chief of the port.

Shortly after midnight Wednesday, fleet naval pinnaces, manned by heavily armed boarding parties slipped away from docks in one big British port. Aboard each boat was an interpreter.

The pinnaces slid quietly alongside battleships, destroyers, submarines and other French craft and the boarding parties, each led by an officer, clambered up ladders in the darkness.

The French awoke to find the British navy in control. The watches aboard the French ships were taken completely by surprise.

Each boarding officer went to the French captain's cabin where the interpreter explained the situation and said the crews would be put ashors immediately.

OFFICER, OTHERS KILLED

Most of the French officers accepted the situation calmly.

The only bloodshed was aboard the submarine Surcouf where an officer misunderstood the interpreter. The boarding officer was wounded and two British seamen fatally shot the French officer. One British seaman was killed, two officers and another seaman were injured before the trouble ended.

Churchill gave the outline of this story yesterday when he told the House of Commons that early July 3 "we took the greater part of the French fleet under our control or else called upon them with an adequate force to comply with our requirements."

He disclosed that "two battleships, two light cruiters, some submarines—including a very large one, the Surcouf—eight destroyers and approximately 200 smaller but extremely useful mine-sweeping and anti-submarine craft, which lay for the most part in Portsmouth and Plymouth, were boarded . . ."

Italians Flay "Brutal Act" Plan Sea Fight

ROME, July 5 (AP)—Authoritative Italian sources today called the British action against France's fleet a "brutal and cynical act."

Reports abroad that Italian ships had helped the French were discredited in these quarters.

Although British Prime Minister Churchill declared the Italian navy had "kept prudently out of the way," advices to Geneva said Italian warships were en route to the scene of the British-French battle off Oran, Algeria.

If the Italian fleet met British ships in the Mediterranean they would fight them, one informant said.

REDS IN NEW RUMAN EDICT

BUCHAREST, July 5 (AP)—Rumors that new Soviet demands on Rumania may be forthcoming circulated in the capital today as the new government of Premier Ion Gigurtu went into action to straighten out troubled internal conditions against which the Kremlin is said to be protesting.

Although without confirmation, reports persisted that Russia was asking for full control of the bridgeheads over the Prut river and at Reni on the Danube.

A Rumanian general staff communique today acknowledged that the Rumanian army had suffered "small losses" in clashes during the withdrawal from Bessarabia and Bucovina.

The Rumanian people meanwhile appeared to be accepting the change in government to Gigurtu's pro-Axis cabinet calmly; although full reports were lacking.

It was assumed the new government was planning stern measures, but it was believed such measures would be put into effect gradually to avoid too much violence and bloodshed, especially in anti-Semitic moves.

An International News Service dispatch from Budapest said increasing Communist unrest in Rumania was reported. Streets in cities and towns were reported strewn with leaflets and posters by Red agitators. Hundreds of Communists were said to have been arrested.—Editor's note.

The Gigurtu government declared it not only was being realistic in adapting its foreign policy "to the system created by the Rome-Berlin axis" but also would adhere to Nazi-Fascist ideology because of "the convictions and biological principles" of the cabinet members.

GO ANTI-SEMITIC

A cabinet communique issued after its first meeting last night indicated the government's social ideology would include anti-semitism. This was expected, since most of the cabinet members either are connected with the long outlawed pro-Nazi Iron Guard or are known to be anti-semetic.

The program as outlined in the communique included:

1—"Honest adaptation to the systems created by the Rome-Berlin axis."

2—Maintenance of good relations with Rumania's neighbors, with the aim of keeping peace in southeastern Europe.

3—Strengthening of national defenses.

4—Recognition of labor as the basis of government and assurance that "adequate compensation will be given for work and production."

5—Support of minorities in expression of their nationalistic aims.

It was obvious Carol was yielding much of his power to the 54-year old Gigurtu, and that Gigurtu, as premier and head of the country's Totalitarian party, was in a position similar to that of Premier Mussolini in Italy and that of Adolf Hitler in Germany during the lifetime of President von Hindenburg.

Some Iron Guardists still are agitating for Carol's abdication.

Diplomatic dispatches to Sofia, Bulgaria, said Carol was considering abdication in favor of his son, 18-year-old Prince Mihai.—Editor's Note.

Editor Charges Red Tape Balks Army, Navy

NEW BEDFORD, July 5 (INS)—In a signed page one editorial, Basil Brewer, publisher of the Standard-Times, today charged that Army and Navy "red tape" is delaying proper steps for American preparedness.

Declaring the Army and Navy, "like the American people themselves," have a "peace-time psychology," Brewer contended that "only the President himself," as head of the Army and Navy, can put an end to the situation.

Silent Raider Bombs Britain

"LONDON, July 5 (INS)—With its motor cut out, a lone German bombing plane glided noiselessly out of the skies today and dropped bombs on a town in southwestern England.

British anti-aircraft batteries drove off the raider. There was no immediate indication of damage done by its bombs.

Cat in the Mail And Smart Cop Stamps Around

It was very perplexing today for Patrolman James W. Elwell of Fields Corner station as, on his appointed rounds in Dorchester, he kept hearing a faint cry at Minot and Adams sts. and couldn't detect from where it came.

He would hear a cry and start in a direction—and it would stop.

Finally, the policeman and the cry got together, beside a large mail box, inside of which, unmistakeably, was a cat.

Postoffice workers solved the mystery. A package containing catnip had been mailed in the box—and the cat had wormed its way in after it and had been unable to get out.

LONDON INCREASES EFFORT TO SEND CHILDREN TO U. S.

As the German air force, piling attack upon attack, bombards Britain's coast cities, the London government doubles its efforts to evacuate thousands of endangered children.

Parents in the endangered areas implore officials to get their sons and daughters to the United States and Canada before it is too late. Thousands are cabling friends and relatives in America.

Meanwhile great secrecy attends the departure of the young refugees. This is because of fear of submarines which infest the waters through which evacuation ships must pass.

In New York the United States Committee for the Care of European Children, headed by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt as honorary chairman and Marshall Field as chairman, prepares for the arrival of the first contingent of children in New York, where some will remain while others go on to Canada.

10,000 FAMILIES

The committee reports 10,000 American families have offered to care for the youthful evacuees until the end of the war.

This number includes more than 2000 New England persons who have written during the past two weeks to the editors of the Evening American, Daily Record and Sunday Advertiser and promised to shelter the children.

It was previously announced that applications made to these newspapers comprised the largest group in the country and would therefore receive early consideration.

The next few days are expected greatly to increase the demand for war orphans in New England, particularly by childless couples who want sons and daughters.

LETTERS FORWARDED

Every letter received by the American and the other two newspapers will be speeded to Washington and given to the officials and agencies which will assume the task of placing the children.

Interesting letters in today's mails say:

SOUTH BOSTON — "My husband and I would be very happy to take two little children from Europe into our home. We are not rich, but we can promise the youngsters an abundance of comfort and happiness. We have been denied the joy of having children of our own. We love children and will do everything in our power to be real parents to the little ones who are entrusted to us."

ROXBURY—"My wife and myself would like to take two boys, preferably Jewish. We are financially able to give them privileges they could never expect in their home countries. If the placement agencies require references or proof of responsibility, we are prepared to supply it."

DORCHESTER—"I have always wanted a baby girl with blue eyes and golden curls. And though I have been the mother of five boys, my prayer for a daughter has never been granted. I therefore would be most happy to give a mother's love to one of the many little blue-eyed girls who will come to America from England. We have a good home and can provide properly for an additional child."

SPRINGFIELD—"I should love to adopt a baby boy from England, France or Belgium. Only another childless woman can understand my great longing for a baby. My husband and I have vainly tried to adopt a child from the various New England agencies. Always the story is the same. The demand greatly exceeds the supply. We may apply, but it will probably be years before we receive a child. Getting a little one from abroad seems to be our only hope."

WOBURN—"I was born and spent my youth in England. I shudder to think what will happen to the little boys and girls of London, Manchester, Hull and the other cities when the Nazi bombs start falling in earnest.

"Let the United States government allow a few thousand of the little boys and girls to come here while there is yet time. I am sure we will provide for them. Four of the children, girls or boys, can stay with me and my wife as long as their fathers and mothers want them to.

"Several of my neighbors, with whom I have talked, feel the same way."

MIDDLETON—"I have raised one family, all good Americans and self-supporting citizens. Now I am willing and eager to start raising another. At 42 years of age I am not too old. I shall gladly take three war orphans, girls or boys. My husband feels the same as I do. We were both born in France and we feel this is the very least we can do to show where our sympathy is.

"Moreover, many of my neighbors share my opinion. All will do their part.

"Let the children come here NOW." That is my message to the men who are supposed to be representing us in Washington. Could there possibly be any better aliens than these deserving little ones who will grow up to be fine Americans?"

CONCORD, N. H.—"We would be glad to care for two or three British or French children until it is safe for them to go back home to their own fathers and mothers. We have raised one family successfully. We think we can do it again."

EASY TO GET RID OF
Cockroaches carry germs of disease and filth from cellars and sewers to the pantry shelves and food containers.
NOW IS THE TIME TO GET RID OF THEM!
DON'TS:
Here are two Don'ts when you get cockroaches and water bugs.
(1) Don't get panicky and move out. It costs $25 or more to move out, while a can of Cheney's Killer costs 25c. Move the cockroaches out.
(2) Don't get used to cockroaches. It's no disgrace to get them, it happens to the best of families, but it is a disgrace to keep them. Treat them as Pests, not Pets.
There is only one sure and safe way to entirely rid the house of the pests. Roaches are night feeding bugs. They don't appear until late, and then the entire family turns out for its daily meal. Feed them something they like better than ordinary food, something that is non-poisonous and does not drive them back into the walls. Safe enough to spread on the pantry shelf. We guarantee.

N. E. Council Joins Defense Job Drive

With industry responding to the expansion of the national defense program, Chairman Albert E. Noelte of the New England Council's community development committee today announced the formulation of 17 recommendations to assist in the training of youth for jobs in New England industry.

Noelte said the recommendations were jointly developed and adopted by the New England conference of commissioners, the New England state national youth administrators and the council's committee. The recommendations:

1—That the State and the United States employment services aid workers in the areas served by these agencies.

2—That, since large numbers of youth are currently employed at governmental expense by NYA and CCC these agencies be fully integrated into any plans undertaken by state and local educational and industrial agencies engaged in the training of youth for national defense.

3—That there shall be developed such co-operation between military services and industry as will protect each in obtaining the men it needs.

4—That aptitude testing shall be used by the training agencies wherever practicable in selecting applicants for training, and that every reasonable effort shall be made by the selecting agency to route the applican. into the training course for which the tests and other considerations show he is best suited.

5—That provision be made for physical training that will help the applicant.

6—That in the interest of national unity, conservation of time and energy, and the avoidance of all avoidable waste—effective co-ordination among all agencies involved is recommended.

CAUTION ON PUBLICITY

7—That as a policy in all matters pertaining to training for national defense, due care and caution be exercised with regard to publicity.

8—That the training for defense purposes be projected so that it will have long time value to the trainee, either as a step toward higher education or as an aid to him in earning his living after this emergency has passed.

9—That sound constructive information be disseminated among American youth as to the importance, dignity and rewards of industrial work, preparation for which involves vocational training.

10—That the commissioners of education and others concerned in the national defense training program look to manufacturers and to labor for advice and counsel when called upon to deal with any controversial matter.

11—That an adequate plan be developed between placement agencies for making available where shortages of workers occur any surplus of trained workers, wherever located.

JOBS FOR WOMEN

12—That young women also be considered in connection with the defense program.

13—That the national defense training program be promptly submitted to regional and state agencies concerned, to the end that the latter may plan their activities to be consonant therewith and thus avoid the waste that arises from independent unco-ordinated action.

14—That training activities be expanded first in industrial centers on typical industrial machinery.

15—That wholehearted co-operation of industry and the community be recognized as necessary to the success of the defense program—regardless of the ultimate location of the trainee in any particular shop or factory.

16—It is important that the numbers trained in any trade should be controlled by the industrial demand for that trade, so that grave problems of later unemployment may be avoided.

17—It is important in all vocational training work that the standards should not be lowered because of the pressure of time. High standards and thorough workmanship are requisites for all of this work.

"I have discovered that Brave Gesture which came here with a big reputation is a pretty tough guy, but believe me Boral Babe will show him a thing or two when they get together in the same race. Art Wilson thinks the Gesture is a cinch, but Sad Carroll tells me confidentially that the Babe will still be on the throne when the meeting winds up for the year. I can't make any predictions now, but when the two of them do get together we can all expect to see one of the greatest races in history."

Many Stocks Push Upward

NEW YORK, July 5 (AP)—Slightly more bullish sentiment prevailed in Wall Street today, and selected stock market issues managed to tack on gains of fractions to a point or so in a dull market.

Best marks were scored in the forenoon. Closing prices were well under the best in most cases. Scattered declines also were in evidence.

Speculative spirits, brokers said, apparently were buoyed to a mild degree by the apparent stiffening of the British war attitude and hopes domestic industry would soon get a lift from rearmament demand.

Fin. Com. Graft Probe Resumed

The witness further testified that today the policeman on the Sumner st. beat, whom Racich was not forced to name, stopped at the garage and in the hearing of two employes called "Jimmy" and "Joe," warned Racich that might yet go to jail.

Racich said the officer told him:

"You keep on and you'll go to jail for perjury."

Racich said

"This police officer is a friend of mine. I don't know why he should say this to me."

Also, said the witness, he received a telephone call from his wife at the garage. She was crying and told him somebody—a business man—had called her and warned her to "keep away from Coffey."

Councilor Coffey, turning to the finance commission, declared

"You're trying to fish it out that I told him what to say."

"You keep still," snapped Elias Shamon of the commission.

"I won't kep still." Coffey snapped right back.

Lamb Legs Get Call For Weekend Menus

With the Fourth of July over, Boston housewives today turned to tender lamb legs, young roasting turkeys, loins of pork or roast beef for the long holiday week-end repasts.

There was an abundance of poultry, too, at reasonable prices for those who favored a change from heavier meats.

According to July custom, lobsters began to ascend in price with boiled ones selling from 40 to 45 cents a pound. Live were from 32 to 40 cents, while lobster meat cost from $1.40 to $1.50 a pound.

Native cabbage was in abundance. Firm heads of exceptional quality sold for 4 cents a pound.

Cool weather continued to retard the swordfish season. Not a single catch was landed this week and because of the holiday it was predicted that their would be no more over the week-end.

Retail food prices in Faneuil Hall market were:

Hub Man Arrested In Chicago Assault

CHICAGO, July 5—Bernard Joslyn, who claims to be in the textile business in Boston, was arrested and taken into police court on a charge of assaulting a cripple in front of the entrance to the swanky Edgewater Beach Hotel, where he and the man he attacked are guests.

In court Joslyn admitted the attack and that it was unwarranted, but claimed he had been drinking.

Youth Found Hanging In Cell Is Recovering

Marked improvement was noted by City Hospital physicians today in the condition of Henry J. McLaughlin, 17, of Main st., Charlestown, whom police found hanging unconscious in a cell at the City sq. police station.

The youth hl been taken into custody for questioning concerning an auto law violation.

Hollywood Paragraphs

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 5—The colorful Pola Negri who was once reported in a concentration camp, put there by Hitler after she lost favor with him, and who is one of the most exciting women ever to be in Hollywood, is coming back.

POLA NEGRI, colorful film star of a few years back, is planning a comeback, Louella O. Parsons reports today.

Pola has cabled friends that she wants to make another picture, and just between you and me, David Loew and Al Lewin will give her a part in "Flotsam" if she wants it. Pola is still a very beautiful woman and there never was anybody in the world just like her. How well I remember when she decided she wanted to meet Rudolph Valentino and left no stone unturned until she landed him "hook, line, and sinker."

The need for quick action is stressed in Edward Small's drastic statement which he is sending today to every independent producer. He is urging prompt attention to his appeal and says unless there is an immediate cut of salaries throughout the industry, elimination of the double bill and the giving away of so-called box-office stimulants, a sharing of problems by the entire industry, movies cannot survive the life and death struggle for existence.

Says Small:

"Too many people have been sticking their heads in the sand for too long a time rather than face the facts. The motion picture business has its back against the wall and faces destruction unless it is rescued from within."

'Torrid Zone' Now On Olympia Screen

With July 4th appropriateness, the crackling "Torrid Zone" opens on Washington St. Olympia screen. Its three stars are James Cagney, Pat O'Brien and Ann Sheridan, whose temperaments fit their vehicle. On the same bill is "The Biscuit Eater," delightful boy-and-his-dog story with Billy Lee.

UPTOWN'S FILMS

"Torrid Zone," with James Cagney, Ann Sheridan and Pat O'Brien, is the Uptown's top feature. Its team-mate on the program is "If I Had My Way," costarring the melodious Bing Crosby and young Gloria Jean with genial Charles Winninger.

Baer-Galento Film At RKO Boston

Official blow-by-blow pictures showing how Bruiser Baer tamed "Beer Barrel" Galento around the squared circle the other night in New York are now being shown on RKO Boston screen. This is an added feature to the holiday program comprising the Peter Lorre-starring "Island of Doomed Men," and "Girls of the Road," with Ann Dvorak, Lola Lane and Helen Mack.

'Tom Brown's School Days' Appealing to All

Hardwicke Great In Teacher Role

By PEGGY DOYLE

There is a realistic, appealing quality about the Gene Towne-Graham Baker film version of "Tom Brown's School Days," and that is news. The Thomas Hughes classic about the English public school system, as your film reporter glances back over too many years, was hardly one to interfere with a young 'un's eight-hours' sleep quota.

Now showing on Keith-Memorial screen, this RKO Radio release is a tribute to the skill of Director Robert Stevenson, the studio's recent British import and the man responsible for those two superb English productions, "Nine Days a Queen" and "To the Victor."

Given an original story that is hardly arresting, Stephenson's honest and brilliant screen treatment has reconstructed a way of British school-boy life with striking vividness and touching sincerity.

He has brought the rather tedious story of Squire Brown's son, Tom, and his persistent hazing at the hands of the fifth-form bullies during his first year at Rugby into sharp relief.

There will be comparisons, inevitable as they are unjust to "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," a great picture with a deeply moving story and produced on a far more lavish scale.

It is the exactitude with which Director Stephenson has caught a long agone period that gives a certain poignancy and value to "Tom Brown's School Days."

Of secondary interest in the book, the headmaster, Thomas Arnold, emerges as the outstanding performance under Sir Cedric Hardwicke's expert handling. Sir Cedric's severe but kindly teacher is one of his finest screen portrayals.

Jimmy Lydon's Tom has a believable boyish flavor and Freddie Bartholomew's East, Tom's estranged pal, should restore him to boxoffice favor following a gawky interlude. "Dead Ender" Billy Halop contrives to skip back over a century with the greatest of ease to become an authentic fifth-form A-1 bully.

On the same bill, "Private Affairs," featuring Lowell's Nancy Kelly, Hugh Herbert, Robert Cummings and Roland Young, is a Universal comedy with a present-day Back Bay background. Wendell L. Willkie is seen in the new "Information Please" special.

JOSEPHINE HUTCHINSON has an important role in "Tom Brown's School Days," classroom epic now at the Keith Memorial.

Lorre Scores in Boston's Film

By DON WARD

Not for a long time has brutality been on the loose in any such measure as screen fans will discover in "Island of Doomed Men," one of the current RKO Boston attractions, with Peter Lorre, who knows all the sinister tricks, as the brute ruling an island peopled by his slaves. Then, for a change, the K B screen shows how young trapezettes live in "Girls of the Road," which has Ann Dvorak, Helen Mack and Lola Lane as top actresses.

The Lorre picture—a Columbia production, directed by Charles Barton—is something like another Devil's Island drama, with paroled men taking all sorts of punishment until the government agent portrayed by Robert Wilcox tears all the terrorism to pieces and saves the boss brute's young wife from further misery.

Incidentally Rochelle Hudson looks like an aquacade queen and wears some of the smartest clothes any siren ever sighed for. It's a terrible island, all right, but the horror king's young wife looks mighty fine in those satin pajamas and that cream and pink negligee, and so forth. The relief in this thriller is sartorial, not comic.

Anyhow Undercover Man Wilcox gets Tyrant Lorre, and takes cute Mrs. Dancl, the stylish widow, away with him.

SPENCER TRACY'S 'EDISON' AMONG SCREEN'S BEST ROLES

Whole Cast Wins Laurels

By PEGGY DOYLE

Mickey Rooney's problem-boy Edison has grown up, and in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's distinguished production, "Edison, the Man," Spencer Tracy clearly indicates his heroic proportions.

The latter half of Hollywood's first two-part biography, now showing on Loew's State and Orpheum screens, takes up where "Young Tom Edison" left off—even to Mickey's tight-lipped, abstracted manner and his clipped inflections. The child is truly father to the man, and Tracy's Edison doubtless is more nearly like kindly, enigmatic wizard of Menlo Park than any one could be.

As to the script's historic accuracy, Metro and Writers Talbot Jennings and Bradbury Foote must plead guilty of taking cinematic license. Their Edison biography, while it is the story of a great inventor who looks and acts remarkably like Thomas Alva Edison, has been sufficiently fictionized here and there for dramatic values to question its strictly historical rating. • • •

The story opens with a fade-in of Edison on the night of his anniversary dinner. He is 82 but he still hankers for apple-pie and a glass of milk. In fact, he's having some before he leaves the house "because you can never tell about banquets."

Then the action flashes back to his early days as an unknown, almost penniless inventor, the encouragement given him by the telegraph tycoon, Charles Coburn's General Powell; his Morse code wooing of Stenographer Rita Johnson, their marriage and the birth of their children and, through it all, the inevitability of his inventive genius.

Tracy's Edison will startle you with its resemblance to the man who illuminated New York by electricity so miraculously one historic night and who was one of the world's most widely publicized benefactors. There is a warm, human quality about him, evident in his dealings with his beloved family and his devoted workers in his faithfully reproduced laboratory.

The entire cast turn in excellent performances, notably Doburn, Lynne Overman, as the bibbling amusing telegrapher; Gene Lockhart, in one of those smiling trickster roles he does so expertly; Miss Johnson, Felix Bressart and Henry Travers.

Charles Coburn is again importantly featured in the second feature, "Florian," which co-stars Robert Young and Helen Gilbert. • • •

Brent Stars in Underworld Film Hit at Para-Fenway

By DON WARD

More melodrama of the familiar order is "The Man Who Talked Too Much," now at the Paramount and Fenway, and making its appeal by way of cast rather than via story. Many fans will remember the same underworld plot when it was done before.

Now, on this second Warner production, it has George Brent as the assistant district attorney who goes all to pieces after he finds he has sent an innocent youth to the chair; and he has a tough time until the gang chief, impersonated by Richard Barthelmess, turns money his way. After this several other characters have a good deal to say—the hero's kid brother, played by William Lundigan, who is helped through law school by the ex-prosecutor and who then proceeds to get in the gangster's way. Virginia Bruce is the clever and attractive secretary who cheers the hero through his ordeal and always has a smile for him. And Brenda Marshall, one of the best of the 1939 finds, enters as the young brother's girl friend and smart booster.

They have to work hard after the gang boss has pinned a murder charge on the young brother. But they win, of course, and the villain goes to the customary violent death. Mixed up with the thrills are the laughs provided by George Tobias and Henry Armetta. They lighten the hour and a quarter.

There are more fond memories in the second feature on the twin screens, "Manhattan Heartbeat" new version of Vina Delmar's famous "Bad Girl," this time with Virginia Gilmore and Robert Sterling as the young couple whose seventh heaven turns into purgatory for a while. Joan Davis furnishes the comedy in this one Operates Separately as Rifle, Semi-Automatic Rifle or Machine Gun . . . And Weighs But 12½ Lbs.

Light

Weighing but 12½ pounds, the new Johnson shoulder machine gun, latest invention of Melvin M. Johnson, Jr., of Boston, can be fired at arm's length as a pistol (above) . . . as a semi-automatic rifle and a machine gun.

Loading

Of 30 caliber, 40 inches long and boasting an extreme range of 5900 yards, the gun is quickly reloaded by inserting a clip of five shells at a time

Inventor—Using both hands as he would a rifle, Inventor Melvin Johnson, Jr., fires his machine gun from the shoulder. An addition to the operation of the Johnson semi-automatic rifle, Mr. Johnson's machine gun innovation is completely new.

Test

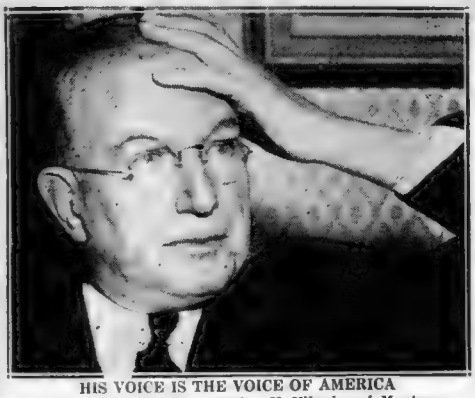
Apart

Weapon is completely taken apart in a few seconds . . . and shoots at the rate of 600 shots per minute . . . or 200 shots per minute in operation of changing magazines and firing. The barrel is interchangeable.

Changeable—By a quick flip of a little lever on the gun stock and attaching a magazine containing 20 shells, the rifle becomes a machine gun. A bayonet may also be attached.

True in Aim—As a machine gun, the weapon's aim is true . . . and here Mr. Johnson checks his score after firing a magazine of 20 shells. When not in use gun is carried over the shoulder with a strap attachment.



HIS VOICE IS THE VOICE OF AMERICA

Able, Patriotic Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana

SENATOR BURTON K. WHEELER of Montana has said that if the Democratic Party does not forthrightly pledge itself to keep America out of foreign war a "new and great anti-war party" may arise to do so.

The forthcoming Democratic National Convention should get its ear to the ground, as Senator Wheeler has obviously done, and understand how completely and unanimously the people of this country are determined to keep out of war.

Perhaps if it should do this, it would pledge in its platform to maintain the permanent peace the American people are determined to have.

Perhaps it might even nominate Senator Wheeler for the Presidency, in which event it would have a candidate who could be depended upon to live up to the platform—a novelty indeed for the Democratic Party, or for any political party for that matter; and an unprecedented situation for the New Deal Party.

How much better it would be for one of the great and established political parties to give the American people what they want in both platform and candidates, rather than to compel them to seek what they want and what is best for them in a new and hastily organized third party!

Why does not the Democratic Party live up to its fine traditions by really being an AMERICAN party, and really representing the American people?

Why does not the Democratic Party avail itself of its extraordinary present opportunity to nominate a presidential candidate who really knows what is good and necessary for our imperilled country?

SENATOR WHEELER has not looked beyond his own country's horizons for his ideals.

He does not seek to perform impossible world tasks of adventure and intervention.

We do not know that he even aspires particularly to be President, although he is a good enough and great enough American to distinguish himself admirably in that high office.

But he DOES know that the last hope of keeping our free American democracy lies in keeping our American peace.

He does know that an American war would mean an AMERICAN DICTATORSHIP, and that we would emerge from it to a peace of exhaustion, and that many generations of Americans might struggle vainly thereafter for the Democratic liberties which are now our heritage and most prized possessions.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler has served the Democratic Party long and faithfully, for many years in positions of trust and responsibility in his own State of Montana, and since 1923 as an outstanding member of the United States Senate.

Probably the love of party is strong within him, for he has had high honors from the party, and has given the best years of his life to its service.

But the love of America is stronger within him, and he will not follow the lead of the Democratic Party if it insists on being a war party.

IT IS TO BE HOPED the Democratic National Convention will be able to hear the voice of Senator Wheeler above the clamor of the internationalist, interventionist New Deal—for his voice is the VOICE OF AMERICA.

The Democratic Convention should have more courage and greater wisdom and higher patriotism than the Republican Convention did, and honestly and unequivocally pledge itself to keep America out of war.

But an anti-war platform is not enough.

Promises and pledges are too easily broken.

Responsible and patriotic men in government, not vote-catching platform promises and pledges, are worthy of the confidence of the people.

The Democratic Convention should therefore nominate a trustworthy American for President, who BELIEVES in peace and who, if elected, could be relied upon to do nothing to jeopardize our peace and to do EVERYTHING humanly, morally and honorably possible to avoid war.

It could certainly do no better, and might do infinitely worse, than to nominate Burton K. Wheeler for this important place and task.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt -s- MY DAY

PROUD OF HER HYDE PARK GARDEN

First Lady Is Busy With Improvements About Estate

HYDE PARK, July 5—I seem to be in the business of correcting statements these days! Apparently, in saying that Park Commissioner Moses and Mayor La Guardia gave the people of the lower end of Manhattan a very lovely parkway, I left out many of the people who really did the work.

This I did not intend to do, and I think we should all be grateful to Borough President of Manhattan Stanley Isaacs who had complete charge of the construction of the East River Drive; to Walter D. Binger, commissioner of borough works, and Lester C. Hammond, chief engineer in charge of design and construction.

THE letters giving me all this information came from Mrs. Mabel H. Pooler and Georgia C. Van Veln. I am very grateful to them for correcting me.

I have also heard from two or three other interested citizens, and one of them, Mr. A. J. Davis, suggests that I should thank the taxpayers whose properties were condemned, and bemoans the fact that depositors in the savings banks are only getting 2 per cent interest on their money because the banks owned most of the condemned property.

Of course, we are always grateful to taxpayers who make any improvement possible, but the 2 per cent interest we receive on our savings accounts does not seem to me so small, for if we desired we could take out our money and put it to work in some way in which we might employ more people and bring us a higher rate of interest.

WE PUT it in the savings banks because we feel that there it is entirely safe and guaranteed by the government. Savings banks are restricted in their investments in order to insure the safety of our deposits and that is why we accept a smaller amount of interest.

It certainly was nice to greet my husband and our son, Jimmy, when they arrived at the house yesterday morning. Major Hooker and I had a nice, but rather short, ride, since I am trying to do a number of things before my regular broadcast which precedes the brief ceremonies, when the new library will be finally turned over to the archivist.

Perhaps the fascination about even the smallest place in the country is that there is always something you want to do. I have discovered a stone mason nearby who lays walls in the old-fashioned way.

OUR lane leading off from the main highway has always been unmarked, so now I am planning two low stone gateposts and some wrought iron letters from Mr. Denny's forge in Poughkeepsie, which should make it easier to identify the entrance to these cottages.

We are very proud of our garden this year. The vegetables seem to be thriving with plenty of rain, even though the sun visits us fitfully and the weather is more nearly like autumn than midsummer.

On The Side -s- By E. V. DURLING

THERE IS NO freedom of speech, press or action for Parisians now. A Parisian can be put to death for listening to an "unauthorized radio broadcast." Yet a feminine writer cables "Paris is returning to normal." She pictures the German invaders as something akin to Boy Scouts bound on doing at least a dozen daily good deeds in the interests of the Parisians. She devotes some space to telling how sweet and kind the German soldiers are to the pigeons in the Tulieries Gardens. And so on and on, ad nauseam. I'll bet the German censor won't make her wait in line to file her next dispatch. In fact, he will probably send a taxi for her.

A READER disputes the contention that Cleopatra was "the first of the Red Hot Mamas." Says he: "This distinction unquestionably belongs to Salome" . . . A man in Roslindale, Mass., says he has invented and patented a four edge safety razor blade. What is the American record for the continuous use of one safety razor blade? Am inclined to believe this record is held by Scott Chisholm, of Los Angeles, Cal., who has used the same blade for eight years. Mike Jacobs, the boxing promoter, is said to hold the record for squeezing the most shaves out of a tube of brushless shaving soap. For the final squeezes Mr. Jacobs uses a flat-iron.

INSPIRED by something said here about fathers a feminine client writes: "My father, the grandest man who ever lived, was left with five children to raise; oldest 16, the youngest 11 months. He was both father and mother to us. Now two of those children are grown and in the United States Army, another is in the U. S. Air Force while the other two girls, keep the home fires burning" . . .

Wisely remarks Missouri's Governor Lloyd C. Stark: "Business needs young men for drive and enthusiasm; it needs older men to see that the young men do not drive in the wrong direction" . . . Southern girls who seem to always get the men the Northern girls want are great users of the "clinging vine" technique. The women from Dixie know how to make a gentleman feel "masterful."

"JOAN CRAWFORD'S rules for snagging a man", is title of a magazine article. Joan certainly knows how to "snag" the males, but seems to have some difficulty in keeping them. She is like the young women Dean Swift said "spend their time in making nets instead of cages." What young women of America need is a series on "how to keep a man" written by women who have kept the same husband 20 years or more.

DEWEY TO LEAVE PUBLIC LIFE

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, July 5—Dist. Atty. Dewey is telling his friends that he'll complete his term of office as District Attorney, and then retire to private practice, because politics has become too expensive . . . That the Democratic ticket will be Roosevelt and Bill Douglas now seems probable . . . Wendell Willkie soon will have another honor heaped upon him—for he'll discover that he's a movie star. The movie short he made will give him star billing . . . Stanley Rinehart, the publisher, was notified to appear at the pier where the Volendam had docked with its refugee children from England and settle a serious problem. On board were Rinehart's two nephews. One of them, through a porthole, greeted: "Hello, Uncle Stan. I've got the mumps."

GLORIA SWANSON

GEORGE JESSEL has a job as technical adviser for Hal Roach's new picture, "Road Show." As soon as the news spread about this employment, Jessel was beset with rumors about lavish expenditures made in behalf of his bride . . . "Is it true that you've bought an estate here for Lois?" George was asked . . . "No," he vowed . . . "Didn't you buy her a foreign-made car?" another interviewer asked. "No." Jessel protested . . . "Didn't you buy your wife a diamond necklace?" was the final query . . . "I did not," George insisted, and then made his denials as strong as he could: "Those stories are just about as true as the one about Cantor buying me a wedding present."

THE COLONY Restaurant has been displaying Paul Flato's bracelet—in which is set the largest aquamarine in the world, weighing 1000 carats. Gene Cavallero, proprietor of the Colony, for weeks has been trying to induce his customers to examine that bracelet, but when he said: "The price is $5000," none of them would deign to inspect it . . . Last week, however, it suddenly began to attract unusual interest. Joan Crawford asked to wear it six times. And among the host of the interested, all of whom pleaded for a try on, were Gloria Swanson and Cecil Beaton. This was because Cavallero had decided upon a new tactic. Instead of telling them the real price, $5000, Gene had assured them that Flato would take not less than one million dollars for it.

AL SMITH is supporting Wendell Willkie, and will make speeches for him, if the Republican candidate should ask him to . . . Leo Durocher, Dodgers' chief, has presented a duplicate of his uniform to George Raft.

NEW YORK CONTINUES to ignore the leading role being played by former Governor Alfred E. Smith in the Willkie "amateur" political campaign . . . And—if you will pardon the anti-climax—this column continues to be harried by letter-writing sceptics who distrust the information relayed via this space that the erstwhile "Happy Warrior" of the Democrats has been a Willkie man for quite some time . . . So—.

NOT ONLY HAS MR. SMITH been exerting his considerable influence toward aiding the Willkie cause in New York, he has been making important converts in Massachusetts . . . Which brings us to a question asked here a few days ago whether former Governor Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts is in the Willkie corner, too . . . He isn't—as yet . . . But it may be a matter of days before he "takes a walk" . . . And his conversion has been undertaken by the convincing Mr. Smith, whose presidential cause the Massachusetts governor espoused in Chicago in '32.

THE SITUATION AT THIS WRITING is as follows—precisely as follows: Mr. Ely has promised his friend Mr. Smith that he will bolt the Democratic party and support Willkie if President Roosevelt is the nominee of the Chicago convention . . . If another candidate is elected, Mr. Ely will string along with the party . . . Obviously, we cannot cite the source of this information . . . It is not, however, a subject which would tempt a cautious reporter to take a step into rumor-land.

IN SPITE OF MR. ELY'S intention now not to run for public office in the future, there is the possibility that someday he might change his mind . . . The Democrats in Massachusetts esteem defections from the party line—whatever the personal issue involved—as a grave offense . . . Unless we were positive of the truth of our statements in the matter, this corner would not permit an injustice to be done the Ely (possible) political future by any such declarations.

BUT THE ELY-SMITH PACT for the impending election seems to be important from the standpoint of national, as well as local, significance . . . If the hostility of Al Smith has become so anti-Roosevelt that Al—and John J. Raskob, too—are taking an active hand in other states as well as New York, this "torpedoing" is something the Democrats will need to offset . . . The Smith group has roots reaching into many states of the union . . . And in New York, there is a bare chance that Postmaster James J. Farley will not be on hand to balance the scales . . . It seems that Mr. Smith's friendliness to the G. O. P. cause should have been, by this time, a subject for the New York journals . . . If the boys don't watch out, Mr. Smith will "scoop" them with a bulletin of his espousal of the Willkie cause—after the Chicago vote is in.

MADELEINE RETURNS NEXT WEEK

Madeleine Carroll

HOLLYWOOD, July 5—Tragic is Madeleine Carroll's futile trip to Europe to join her fiance, a French aviator, for she never saw him. She arrived in Madrid just as Germany invaded Paris and although all information is sketchy, it is certain that the she never contacted her flier. "Virginia," starring Madeleine and Fred MacMurray, starts July 15 with location shots made in the state from which the picture derives its name.

Until today, Para was greatly worried about whether Madeleine would be back in time to make "Virginia" but a cable arrived from a man named Wyatt with the information that the blonde star would sail from Lisbon on the Clipper July 8. All the messages are cryptic with no real details revealed, but the studio doubts if Madeleine has seen either her parents or her aviator. Stirling Hayden, youthful actor and a stranger in our midst, has been chosen by Director E. H. Griffith to replace Ray Milland in "Virginia."

TWO-MINUTE STORY

FOR A LONG time, Joe Adams looked at the gun. It was a beautifully made weapon. A Luger automatic. Joe had taken it from a German officer in the war.

Joe picked up the gun. He handled it negligently like one accustomed to weapons. After he had made sure it was fully loaded, he put it inside the waistband of his trousers, under his vest.

Then he got his hat and went into the kitchen. He looked at the grey-haired, sad-eyed woman who sat by the stove.

"Ma," he said, "I'm going out."

"Are you going to look for a job?"

Joe's mouth twisted in a sneer that was half mockery, half self-pity.

"That's funny. Nobody's going to give me a job. The war's over, Ma. Heroes are a dime a dozen these days. They don't need me any more. The only thing they taught me to do was to kill. And who's going to hire a killer?"

"DON'T SAY those things, son. You scare me when you talk like that."

Joe stared ahead bitterly.

"Yeah, they told us we'd be the kings of the world when we came back. And they didn't keep their promises. I lost my job and I lost my girl. I learned only one thing—how to shoot a gun."

He went out.

As Joe neared the bank he felt the way he used to just before he went "over the top." He got his hand on the butt of the automatic. It felt cold and heavy.

Then he heard the shots. He saw the masked men running into the bank.

"They beat me to it," he thought in amazement.

A deafening racket of shots boomed inside the bank. The bandits were firing at everyone in sight.

"The dirty rats," muttered Joe.

His gun was in his hand. And once more he was the Joe Adams who had won a hero's medal in the nightmarish slaughter of the war.

"MY BOY," said the bank president, "we can never thank you enough."

"Yeah," said Joe.

"Do you realize that one of the three men you killed was Eddie Sebastian, the Chicago desperado?"

"No. What about it?"

"There is a very substantial reward for that fellow. Four thousand dollars, dead or alive." He slapped Joe on the back. "My boy, you're a hero."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

ARE THINGS pressing you close and hard these days? Are you sick of everything, including your own self? Hating the narrowness of your life . . . resenting the pettiness of your lot . . . yet unable to cure it? Then listen.

There's a great sermon on the walls of Radio City Music Hall. Call it a mural if you wish, but something more than paint went into that poignant picture of our human life.

In the foreground an old man stands on the edge of a rocky slope. He is a tired and bewildered old man for he has been climbing a long time and he does not yet know from whence he came or where he is going.

The arid ground beneath him, with its twisted growth, rises out of an abyss and disappears into a void. There are no road signs . . . only a worn trail, winding on and on.

ONCE, when he was young, the old man had wondered about that trail, rejoicing in its adventure, rounding each turn with eager curiosity.

But now, for a long time, he has been too tired to give it much thought.

Now, for an instant, he pauses to rest, leaning on his staff, lifting his eyes, for the first time in many years, to the sky above him. Then stands breathless, unbelieving.

For the sky above him is tumultuous with life . . . driving, dramatic life! Across the heavens it sweeps, in a triumphant arc, that pageant of the man's progress! All Man has dreamed and dared is in that progress . . . his triumphs and failures.

There is agony in that march . . . there is brutality as well as beauty.

A SKY ALIVE with life! Suddenly, looking at that crowding, clamorous life, the old man realizes that he, too, is a part of that pageant. He is not a lonely pilgrim, seeing only the thorny scrap of earth beneath his feet. He is part of a great adventure . . . an important, vital part.

And as long as he remembers that he can never be lonely again. Nor can anything he does seem unimportant. For it, too, is part of a pattern, the pattern of Destiny that heads, however slowly, up and on to the Source from which it came.

ARE YOU LONELY? SICK OF THE NARROWNESS OF YOUR LIFE . . . HATING YOUR OBSCURITY . . . BUT UNABLE TO CURE YOURSELF?

Then lift up your eyes! Life marches all about you! Stop walking alone—thinking alone—take your place in that marching mass!

South American Influence

By ANNICE BRINK

A COLOR furore in fashion means a lot more if you know the inspiration back of it . . . a shawl is not so grandmotherly, but infinitely more exciting if it's worn like a Chilean cowboy's poncho, sweeping cross-wise over the left shoulder . . . and a rolled brim is no longer a breton, but a "huaso's rolling felt sombrero!"

By which you might gather that we're knee deep in South American sources for fashion, and it's just so. Burnt brown . . . a coming summer color . . . is more intriguing as "pampas brown."

Blazing pink and staccato reds come from the festival frocks of the South American girls . . . and "copihue" is a new red, exactly like the Chilean national flower that the girls in flowered muslins wear when they dance the "cueca" on a feast day.

Fulled trouser fashions for the beach come from the baggy bombachas the gaucho wears . . . dirndl skirts of Santiago stripes are the latest thing in beach wear.

And when you wear flounced organdies to do your best version of the conga, samba or rhumba, you're wearing the type of thing preferred by the girl friends of the gauchos when they dance the paso doble.

It's new fashion language, and fascinating.

You Can Be Beautiful

3-Day Liquid Diet Is Yours!

By ARLINE GOULD

WE CAN help you out by offering you the newest and best there is in exercise and diet ideas . . . in fact, we're doing that just now! This is to remind you that nothing much more efficacious has been devised for reducing than our "3 Day Liquid Diet" . . . and it also revives your pep and vitality by toning up your system!

But there is much more to it than that . . . you have to follow through, and cultivate charm of manner and outlook, to go with your heightened physical beauty.

Such advice assumes deeper authority when it comes from a famous beauty expert . . . someone who "has everything" herself . . . and here is what she has to say:

Make a fetish of femininity; of cleanliness and daintiness, because that is one of women's most important functions in life since time immemorial. Styles may come and go, but women will always stand for femininity and daintiness.

Cultivate a soft, pleasing voice and beautiful gestures. Many a beautiful woman becomes ugly the moment she speaks. If her voice jars the ears, then she is a disappointment, for a lovely woman must appeal to all the senses.

Be polite and courteous whether at home or at work. Nothing carves wrinkles and droopy lines in the face faster than sulky, cross expressions. Bossy attitudes soon give the mouth a mean, tight look.

Radiate appeal. At any age whatsoever women either have a magnetic charm that draws people especially men—toward them, or they haven't. If not, it can be acquired with an understanding of beauty.

So there! Now if you'd like your copy of the marvelous 3-Day Liquid Diet for reducing . . . write Arline Gould, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Back-Wash

By Duncan Smith

CAPTAIN GEORGE FLAHERTY stood in the pilot house of the Mary Anne, blue eyes wide, trying to pierce the grey, Puget Sound fog. At regular intervals his fog-horn blared out and was answered by one of deeper note on Skagit Head.

The Cast of Characters in "Back-Wash"

CAPT. FLAHERTY, who recalls an unpleasant experience while rushing to the rescue of CAPT. GARRICK of the Daisy Mae, bearing a valuable cargo, but crippled.

Flaherty was a very capable tugboat skipper. Cruising about the Sound in a fog was child's play to him, for he knew every inch of the coast, but to pick up a crippled vessel and avoid collision was another thing.

"The Daisy Mae," he mused. Something about that name sounded a dim memory. One hour earlier a wireless message had been sent in to him. The Daisy Mae was drifting, helpless, three miles north of Skagit Head. It was a hurry call.

Then his mind clicked and his eyes narrowed. Another foggy night was in his memory. Another call for help. But when he had gone to her rescue, put a line aboard and pulled her clear, some one had cut the line loose from the vessel and she steamed off into the fog. With her engines repaired she had needed him no longer.

And the matter of a six hundred dollar towing bill had also been overlooked. In later checking on the Sea Horse, for that was the name given him, Flaherty had found that she was in Mexican waters at the time. Some skipper had pulled a fast one on him. A day later he had seen the Daisy Mae limp into Seattle. It had been a foggy night, but she looked familiar.

Her skipper, Captain Garrick, also sounded familiar. But Flaherty couldn't prove anything, so he forgot it, that is, until now. "Just so much back-wash," he had called it.

He lowered two pilot house windows and called to his deckhand forward. "Keep a sharp eye there now, Matt. We ought to be picking her up soon."

"SHE'S MINE"

White water curled back from the tug's prow, hissed and frothed as it was lost astern.

Out of the dark ahead a steamer's whistle sounded. Flaherty blew his own whistle and rang the bell for full speed. The throaty cough of the one hundred horse Diesel engine became a constant roar.

Lights glowed dimly in the white mist. The Mary Anne was fast approaching the disabled steamer. Flaherty saw another tug alongside the vessel.

"Well, I'll be ——," he said. "Old Jed Thomas trying to beat me to it." The voice of Thomas shouting to the steamer's captain reached Flaherty's ears. He must be making ready to get a line aboard her.

The Mary Anne drew ahead slowly. Flaherty stepped out to the deck with his megaphone.

"Ahoy there, Daisy Mae," he shouted. "Captain Garrick?"

"Keep off of her. She's mine." It was Thomas' deep growl.

"Like h—, she is. They sent for me." Flaherty knew Thomas had run on to her by accident. He had a nose for such things.

Then Captain Garrick's voice came from the steamer's bridge, "Gentlemen, my ship is drifting toward the beach. Get a line aboard her at once." He also sounded angry. "Mr. Thomas, you were here first."

"You brought me all the way up here from Seattle," Flaherty shouted.

"I'm sorry, Flaherty. Maybe another time."

Flaherty turned to the deckhand. "That bird beat me out of six hundred berries." There was one thing, Flaherty knew, in his favor; Thomas' tug was a decrepid old tub. Perhaps he couldn't get his towline aboard the Daisy Mae.

The wind freshened steadily. Again and again Flaherty heard the other tug's catapult gun explode. Thomas was having his troubles. Flaherty called to the steamer captain again.

"What'd you want?" he yelled back.

"You're going to be on the beach before long. How about giving me the job?"

"Get your lousy tug out of here," came the answer. Flaherty had maneuvered his snub-nosed craft to the Daisy Mae's off-shore quarter. There he faced the Mary Anne to open water with her stern almost too close to the steamer. Then he rang for full speed ahead and pulled away for a short distance. Then he cut the power and allowed her to drift back again.

He chuckled. "We'll get her yet, Matt, what'd you bet."

Still sounds of confusion came to him from the other tug. After many times of drifting close to the steamer and pulling away to avoid collision, Flaherty turned his tug about. Now he was nosed in to the large vessel.

"Rig the catapult," he told the deckhand. A moment later it was ready; the heavy line coiled neatly to avoid fouling.

"Ahoy, Daisy Mae," he shouted again.

"MAKE HER FAST"

The answering hail came in a deep growl.

"I'm putting a line aboard you."

Capt. Garrick swore. Without further ado the line streaked out into the fog. Flaherty heard a sharp exclamation from the steamer's deck and knew that his towline had made it; more, that the soggy hemp had struck a sailor.

"Make her fast," Flaherty called. "You can decide then what to do."

"We have your line," the captain growled, "stand by."

Flaherty made no answer. The end of the line was made fast to the tug's stern-bits and the little craft was turned seaward again. The drifting, stern-on to the steamer was again resumed with the alternate full-speed given.

Now the sound of breakers on the coast could be plainly heard.

Capt. Garrick's voice came from the fog. "Mr. Thomas' tug is out of commission," he said. "What's your price to tow me into Seattle?"

"Another five minutes and you'd be a salvage job."

"All right, Flaherty, what's your price?" the captain had evidently been thinking of the same thing.

"Three thousand dollars," Flaherty called.

"You're a robber. I won't pay it."

"Wait, and it will be salvage."

The captain swore. Flaherty heard nothing for minutes, except the unnatural sound of the other tug. Thomas had given it up.

"I'll give you two thousand, Flaherty."

"Sorry, the price has gone to five thousand."

FLAHERTY WINS

The skipper howled in rage. He said some very uncomplimentary things about Mr. Flaherty. But Flaherty only grinned at Matt and held his tongue.

"Make it 25 hundred," Garrick wheedled.

"Six thousand. You get just two minutes to decide and the price goes up another thousand."

Breakers were close now. "How much you draw, Garrick?"

"Thirty feet."

"You're dang near on bottom now. Take my word for it."

"All right, pull me out," shouted the skipper. "I'll report you to the commission for this."

"Better change your mind about that. You know, this tow-line might break. I had a line aboard you once before and it broke on your end; after your engines were repaired. Salvage on you would run into real money in my pocket." Flaherty paused. "You still want to run to the commission about this?"

Captain Garrick was forced to accept. Flaherty moved out slowly to pick up slack in the line. Once tight, he gave it the power and the steamer was slowly drawn into deep water.

In the tiny office, Flaherty sat behind his desk fingering the steamship company's certified check for six thousand. "It's a pleasure to have done business with you, Captain Garrick," he said.

Garrick only growled. "I wish you would tell me something. Is there a strong in-shore drift where I broke down last night? Very little wind and yet I drifted a mile or more in less than an hour."

Flaherty glanced around the office and to the open door. There was no one in sight. Then he leaned across the desk and said softly, "It's like this, Captain, there's a lot of power in those tug engines. Lotta pitch to the screw, too." He grinned. "It was the back-wash, Captain, the back-wash."

THE END.

Lights glowed dimly in the white mist. The Mary Anne was fast approaching the disabled steamer.

Quick-Frozen Foods Helpful

By MARTHA LEE

You can serve fresh fish treats all the year 'round, no matter how far you live from the sea, if you use quick-frozen foods. All the troublesome tasks of cleaning were done before quick-freezing sealed in their full, fresh, flavor with sub-Arctic cold.

Quick-frozen fruits and vegetables, too, are all ready to serve or cook just as they come from the cartons—a special blessing to homemakers when the mercury goes up.

COLD SALMON WITH CUCUMBER SAUCE

1 box (16 oz.) quick-frozen salmon steak, cooked
1½ cups finely chopped cucumber
1 tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
1 tsp. scraped onion
1½ to 2 tbsp. vinegar

To cook quick-frozen salmon, (frosted or thawed) in saucepan; add 1 cup water, ¼ cup sliced celery, ¼ cup sliced onions, ¼ cup sliced carrots, 1 sprig parsley, 1 tsp. salt, 4 peppercorns, 2 whole cloves, and 3 thick slices of lemon. Cover and cook gently about 20 minutes, or until salmon is done; cool in liquor. When cold, remove and chill. Serve with cucumber sauce. Makes 4 servings.

CUCUMBER SAUCE

Drain cucumber; add remaining ingredients and mix lightly. Chill. Makes about 1¼ cups of sauce.

ICE CREAM SANDWICH WITH PEACHES

Use eight 1½ inch wedges of sponge cake, allowing two for each serving. Place a slice of brick vanilla ice cream or raspberry ice on one wedge and cover with the second, turning so that the narrow end is above wide end of bottom cake wedge. Top with quick-frozen sliced peaches, just thawed, using 1 box. Makes 4 servings.

RASPBERRY AND ORANGE COCKTAIL

2 cups chilled orange sections, free from membrane
1 cup chilled orange juice
1 tbsp. lemon juice
1 tbsp. sugar
1 box quick-frozen red raspberries, thawed and sweetened.
⅓ cup seedless white grapes
6 sprigs of mint

HERE'S a good warm weather dinner—delicious swordfish or salmon—the quick-frozen variety, always available.

Drain orange sections, reserving juice; add additional orange juice to make 1 cup. Add lemon juice and sugar. Place orange sections in bottom and around sides of each sherbet glass and fill center with raspberries. Garnish with grapes, placing one grape between adjacent orange sections. Pour fruit juices over fruit. Garnish with mint.

Saltonstall and Cahill File Here

Nomination papers in behalf of Gov. Leverett Saltonstall and Lieut.-Gov. Horace T. Cahill were filed today at the Boston Election Commission office in City Hall.

Thomas Morahan of Newton, who said he represented the Republican state committee, filed the papers containing the signatures of registered Republican voters in Boston.

Two papers containing 160 signatures were filed in behalf of the Governor and one containing 80 signatures was filed for Cahill.

Asked to comment on his candidacy for re-election, Lieut.-Gov. Cahill said:

"In 1934, I received the largest vote ever cast for this office. Since then, I have worked hard and without fanfare to give Massachusetts honest, active and intelligent service.

"When re-elected, I shall continue this service and the teamwork which has characterized this administration."

Cahill's vote was in excess of 920,000.

Mr. Boston

By JACK CONWAY

SCENE . . . Lindy's Restaurant on Broadway, New York, at 1 a. m. on morning after Max Baer stopped Tony Galento. Characters. Jimmy Johnston, Jack Kearns, Johnny Ray, Johnny Buckley, Al Buck and Mr. Boston.

BUCK . . . I think the public tired of watching Tony Galento do his clown act, and that it was satisfied when he was knocked out by Baer. When Galento did his clowning as a gay joke under the direction of Joe Jacobs, the fans turned to it for relief. Galento then went in for serious clowning, and nobody liked it. Not even when he said he had his chin cut when somebody bounced a beer mug off it.

MAX BAER

MR. BOSTON . . . Baer must have made Galento feel as if he were being hit by a hundred beers mugs at the same time. Especially in the seventh round.

JOHNSTON . . . You could tell that Galento was not going to fight any more by the way he went to his corner at the end of the seventh session. That final right hand punch that Baer crashed to Galento's mid-section did the trick. I think it is a good thing for the boxing game to be rid of Galento. He certainly did not add any dignity to it. If Baer cannot fight any better than he did against Galento, he will be knocked out by Joe Louis in short order. I think the Louis-Baer bout is headed for Chicago.

KEARNS . . . The show will do better in Chicago than any place else. Baer has put up some of his best battles in Chicago. The fellow has color and will help swell the gate receipts. Max may also be in better condition for Louis than he was for Galento. Ray Arcell tells me Baer trained faithfully for Galento. I think he was in as good condition as it was possible for him to be.

MR. BOSTON . . . What would Jack Dempsey have done to types like Galento and Baer when in his prime?

KEARNS . . . He would have knocked out both of them in the same ring and on the same night. Dempsey was a power fighter, and liked to let his punches fly.

* * *

Sharkey Willing to Battle Dempsey Again

JOHNNY BUCKLEY . . . I would like to match Jack Sharkey for a four-round bout with Dempsey. How much do you think it would draw in New York?

JOHNSTON . . . Put the match in for the Red Cross and it will do $100,000. Dempsey and Sharkey could also box to big crowds in Chicago, Boston and Detroit. They might also go to the Coast for a bout in Los Angeles.

BUCKLEY . . . Sharkey is in better condition than any of the former champions. He has always taken good care of himself.

BUCK . . . Dempsey drew $30,000 against a wrestler in Atlanta which was pretty good.

KEARNS . . . And proved he still can punch. The last thing a fighter loses is his punch. Jack, of course, couldn't expect to go

LEAHY RESUMES GRID TOUR

B. C. Coach Teaches at 2 Texas Schools

If you think the life of a college football coach is an easy one you might consider the case of young Frank Leahy, affable mentor of the Boston College eleven.

Today, after a short stopover at his Newton home for a reunion with his pretty wife and two young children, Frank is once again on the road headed for Chicago and points west, where he'll continue his summer vacation, leading a dual life—first class representative of the United States Rubber Co. and leading ligt of a half-dozen coaching schools.

The young man who, in his initial head coaching assignment, piloted the Chestnut Hill school into the Cotton Bowl and a sliver of the national spotlight last season, has a full summer program.

From Memorial Day to the late part of last week Leahy had traveled extensively, instructed at a pair of coaching schools, one in Rapid City, South Dakota and the other, with Andy Kerr and Fred Swan, at Colgate in Hamilton, N. Y., and carried on business for the concern for which he does year round work.

B. C. STARTS PRACTICE SEPT. 3

Before he returns to Boston to start practice at Boston College presumably on Sept. 3, Leahy will have covered many miles, attended three business meetings which will be held in various parts of the country and instructed at four more coaching schools.

These schools will be held at Fort Davis and Austin, both in Texas, Daytona Beach, Florida and Oklahoma City.

The Oklahoma job starts on August 23 and runs through to 31. So it appears that, contrary to the general belief, Boston College, with its opening game scheduled for Sept. 21 (Centre) and an intersectional clash with Tulane at New Orleans, carded for Sept. 28, won't start its practice campaign much before the Tuesday after Labor Day.

TO USE SAME ATTACK

Leahy plans no changes in his squad personnel and expects to have, with the exception of an innovation here and there, pretty much the same kind of attack and defense.

He'll keep sophomore Fred Neumentz with the center squad, sophomore Joe Repko with the guard squad, junior Leo Strumski with the tackle unit, and junior Justin McGowan at the blocking quarterback slot as understudy to Henry "The Hammer" Toczylowski. As freshmen Naumetz and Repko played respective end and tackle positions. Last season McGowan was a halfback and Strumski an end. The changes were made during the spring practice.

Leahy had little to say about the approaching season. Frank expects "to have a better team, but not so successful a season" as he attained in his initial year of head coaching.

Though that statement seems a bit puzzling, the key lies in the 1940 schedule. With Tulane, Georgetown, Auburn, Temple, Idaho and Holy Cross carded, Leahy feels that though his senior squad will be a better unit than the Cotton Bowl team, the rugged schedule will overlap the improvement.

AS DODGERS FIND ROLE OF EAGLES NICE CHANGE

Single by Ross Scores Moore in First at Hive

By BILL GRIMES

NATIONAL LEAGUE FIELD, July 5—Al Piechota and Luke Hamlin were the opposing pitchers in the opening game between the Bees and the Dodgers this afternoon at National League field.

On his last time out Piechota dropped a tough game to the Giants at the Polo Grounds, where he was the victim of three cheap home runs. On the other hand, Hamlin was knocked from the box by the Bees last Sunday at Ebbets Field Brooklyn.

FIRST INNING

DODGERS—Reese flied to West. Miller threw out Lavagetto. Walker walked. West to West. NO RUNS.

BEES—Hassett flied to Medwick. Moore popped to Cossart. Moore singled. Moore stole 2nd and took third when Phelps threw wild. Ross singled, scoring Moore. West flied to Walker. ONE RUN.

SECOND INNING

DODGERS—Medwick walked. Phelps fouled to Moore. Medwick was out stealing, Berres to Miller. Camilli was called out on strikes. NO RUNS.

BEES—Powell flied to Reese in short left. Cossart threw out Moore. Berres flied to Vosmik. NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING

DODGERS—Vosmik walked. Cossart forced Vosmik at second Miller to Rowell. Hamlin flied to Ross. Reese flied to Ross. NO RUNS.

BEES—Reese threw out Piechota. Hamlin tossed out Hassett. Sisti struck out. NO RUNS.

FOURTH INNING

DODGERS—Miller threw out Lavagetto. Walker flied to Moore. Medwick walked. Phelps forced Medwick, Hassett to Miller. NO RUNS.

BEES—Moore flied to Medwick. Ross stuck out. West was safe on

BEE HUNTERS—Leading the National League and confident they'd continue their winning pace at the Beehive were these Dodgers, shown after landing at East Boston today. They were flown to Boston on two planes, specially chartered.

SOX SAG AS 2D HALF STARTS

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 5—The Boston Red Sox came to the nation's capital last April, chins high, shoulders squared, expecting to set a fast pace from the start in their march to the American League pennant.

They were not disappointed, either, for ancient Lefty Grove blanked the Nats with two hits on opening day, and Jim Bagby also applied the calcimine brush in the second game.

Today, the Red Sox came here to open the second half of the season. Lefty Grove has been shelled from the box seven times since that memorable opening day. Jim Bagby has a 5-6 record Emerson Dickman, who looked like a 20-game winner in the south, has a 4-4 record, as has Galehouse.

INFIELD POROUS

Their pitching has been ragged, their fielding more so. Joe Cronin seems washed up as a shortstop.

At third base, Jim Tabor is more scatter-armed than ever. And Jimmy Foxx is still hugging first base for dear life.

With an infield like that, it is no wonder that the pitching has seemed poor, because baseballs are pouring through there that are gobbled up by any other infield in the majors.

So, today, as the Sox arrived here, their outlook was the bleakest it has been in years. It is safe to predict that the A. L. pennant

Yacht Vamarie First Home

HAMPTON, Va., July 5 (AP)—The first of 21 craft in the Virginia Cruising Cup race from Gibson's Island, Md., to Hampton arrived shortly after noon today, and Hampton Yach Club officials identified it as the Vamarie, owned by the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., and manned by midshipmen.

Officials said it might be two hours before the winner in the race could be determined, because of handicap regulations.

About 11 a. m., Sidney Vincent of Hampton, chairman of the race committee, reported by ship-to-shore telephone from the Tejera that that entrant was off Wolf Trap Light, about 30 miles up the bay from the finish line.

Empire Race Chieftain Dies

NEW YORK, July 5 (INS)—William Butler, vice-president of the Empire City Racing Association, died today at the Butler family home, Eastview, of a heart ailment.

Born in 1892, Butler was a practicing lawyer with offices in New York city. He was a widower.

The funeral will be held Monday at the Butler Memorial Chapel, Marymount College, Tarrytown. He is survived by one brother, James Butler, president of the Empire City Racing Association, and two sisters, Mrs. D. Philip MacGuire and Mrs. Walter E. Travers.

Flags at the Empire City race track were placed at half mast today.

Dogs Killing More Deer than Hunters

Dogs probably are killing as many deer as hunters in Massachusetts, according to a statement issued today by James E. Agnew, State director of fisheries and game, as he appealed to owners to prevent their dogs from destroying wild life.

"While there is no way in which to determine the exact number of deer killed by stray dogs," he said, "it is probable that through the winter, spring and early summer, they have killed as many as the gunners did in the last open season."

Tarzan Runs in Somerville

One of the largest field to participate in a 10-mile road race of the year will face the starter's gun in the second annual road race of the St. Polycarps Men's Association of Somerville tomorrow night.

The affair, one of the many features of the fifth annual Field Day, will start promptly at 6:30 p. m. with over 100 macadam performers to toe the mark.

Among the noted road runners who will participate are "Tarzan" Brown, Johnny Kelley of Arlington, Leslie Pawson of Pawtucket, R. I., Joe Smith, the North Medford milkman, Ted Carpenter, Tony Medeiros, Bob Campbell, Andre Brunelle, John "Hawk" Zamparelli, and Clarence DeMar.

Jenkins-Armstrong Injunction Denied

BROOKLYN, July 5 (AP)—Supreme Court Justice John M. McCooey today denied the request for an injunction to prevent Lew Jenkins, lightweight boxing champion, from meeting Welterweight King Henry Armstrong at the Polo Grounds, July 17.

The injunction was asked by promoters of Broadway Arena, who claimed Jenkins was scheduled to meet Jack Sharkey, Jr., there April 2 and then asked for an postponement until June 10.

In the meantime, Jenkins won the title from Lou Ambers.

The New York State Boxing Commission previously had refused to stop the Jenkins-Armstrong fight on the grounds no contracts for a Jenkins-Sharkey fight had been filed.

Guibord Risks N. E. Net Title In Cape Play

OYSTER HARBORS, July 6—Paul Guibord, No. 1 New England tennis player, will defend his title in the fourth annual Oyster Harbors men's tennis tournament tomorrow, it was announced here today by Tom Frydell, Oyster Harbors professional and Raymond B. Bidwell, former national amateur champion, who is chairman of the tournament committee.

Guibord, who has won the singles championship here for the past two years, is one of more than 40 top players, who will compete in the matches which begin tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. The doubles matches will start at 2 p. m.

Among some of the headliners to play in both singles and doubles matches will be Langdon Gilkey of Chicago, New England intercollegiate champion; Edward J. Serues, of Medford, who beat Guibord in the state open at Worcester last week; Albert Barrows, of Providence, recent high ranking New England junior player; Vaughn Pipes of Boston, former Longwood Club champion; Robert Shedden of Boston and Wianno; B. H. Whitbeck, former Harvard captain; Fred Leopold, Dartmouth No. 5 player; Long Ellis, No. 1 Lawrenceville school player, Orme Wilson of Chestnut Hill, former Harvard player; Samuel H. Snow, Dartmouth College star; Albert Stitt, runner-up in the doubles here last year with Bob Decker, and John Merrill, Harvard varsity player.

Spartans Have Won 20 Of 22 Games Played

Dorchester Spartan Baseball Club of Alsen Playground, Neponset, is in its seventh consecutive season under management of Tom Owens, former coach of Noble & Greenough School. The team has won 20, lost one and tied one, with such stars as "Pete" Talanian, all-scholastic for Commerce; "Dick" Matthews, all-scholastic of a New Jersey high school, and "Bud" Condon, stellar first baseman.

Do You Fear Polluted Waters?

EXPERT DEBUNKS ANGLERS' NOTIONS

By DARK MONTREAL

How many times, Mr. Angler, have you taken a wistful look at picturesque and tempting stretches of the Merrimack or other principal New Hampshire and Massachusetts water-power streams only to tell yourself:

"No use fishing there. Too much pollution. Mill waste and sewers. And anything a fellow would catch wouldn't be fit to eat, anyhow."

Well, you've been kidding yourself, according to Herbert E. Warfel, chief biologist of the New Hampshire Fish and Game Commission.

DEBUNKS OLD FEARS

In a scholarly scientific treatise, just released under the title, "Why Not Fish the Rivers," he debunks the pollution "superstition" and asserts there's good—and safe—game fishing in major parts of the Merrimack, the Contoocook and other similar Massachusetts and New Hampshire streams.

"First," Warfel asks, "what is pollution?" And he answers:

"Anything foreign to the water in question is a pollutant. Sawdust, silt, leaves and other forest debris, rubish, millwaste, gravel pit washings, laundry washings and domestic sewage are some of the items ilsted on the pollution index in fis hand game department files.

"All of these items are pollutants and have their effects on the usefuiness of the water into which they are dumped.

"The effects of pollutants come under two headings—unsightliness and contamination. Both apparently determine which waters e going to be fished and which are going to be let alone by anglers.

POLLUTANTS CAN HELP

"Actually, a certain amount of organic material introduced in a stream does more good than harm, as waters so treated are usually very fertile and produce great quantities of fish food.

"None of our game fishes lives on sewerage. But many of them are dependent on small crustaceans, insects, one-celled animals, wheel animals and other minute forms of life which feed the minnows which in turn supply bass, pickerel and other game fish with necessary sustenance.

"The only sewerage eaters are carp, which unfortunately are present in the Merrimack, and to a certain extent the horned pout.

"Therefore the game fish you, the angler, are seeking, will probably never come into direct contact with sewerage of any kind."

• • •

"Good milk, to cite an analogy, is produced from grass grown abundantly on fields that have been fertilized with barnyard manure. We never give it a second thought. By the same token, good fish flesh is produced from food grown abundantly in fertile waters, fertilized from the soil the waters drain and from any other organic materials that may be added.

FISH SHUN BAD SPOTS

"Sewage, while obnoxious, is seldom dangerous to fish life because where it exists in quantities sufficient to produce serious effects in a stream, game fish do not live. They can't, in fact, because things they need for existence are not present.

"Streams are capable of self purification of wastes derived from living things (called organic wastes). Generally, when sewerage is added to a stream, only a relatively small part of the stream area is seriously affected and definite zones with certain characteristics can be detected.

"The first affected area, known as the zone of introduction, is characterized by gray colored water that is very turbid, a heavy deposit of sludge exists on the bottom and a particular kind of fungus (non-color-bearing plant) appears in clouds. Bacteria are present by millions and are rapidly decomposing the materials contained in the sewerage.

"As a result of this decomposition, oxygen, necessary for fish to breathe, is almost all exhausted, and carbon dioxide is present in such quantities that fish cannot live in this area. But the extent of this zone in a stream is relatively short.

"The next zone is the zone of active decomposition. Practically no oxygen and no fish life exists here.

"Then comes the zone of recovery, characterized by clearing water, green vegetation and mud-feeding fish. Oxygen is increased here to the point of saturation.

"Finally comes the zone of clear water. Here and here only come the game fishes. The stream is restored to its normal purity. In many of the larger rivers of the United States, water is removed for human consumption at this point. It would be hard to estimate the number of times the Mississippi alternately furnishes drinking water and acts as a sewer.

Pat Comiskey Seems Sole 'White Hope'

NEW YORK, July 5 (AP)—Pat Comiskey, the tall, blond puncher from Paterson, N. J., still looks like the only heavyweight in the country who might, in time, give Joe Louis a real fight for his title.

Comiskey has improved tremendously in the last eight months, since his meteoric rise was slowed temporarily by the cagey veteran, Steve Dudas, and he looks now as though he will go on to challenge for the crown.

It might take a little longer than that for Comiskey to get thoroughly ready, but some smart boxing men around this town don't think so. Al Weill, who manages Lou Ambers, Arturo Godoy and about 40 others, is one of the latest to climb on the Comiskey bandwagon.

"When I seen him the other night I couldn't hardly believe my eyes," Al volunteered. "The kid's got a nifty left now to go with that right of his."

Pat always could knock them bowlegged with his right. He packs a real knockout in that fist. But he had no left at all the first time he fought Dudas, and the veteran made a monkey of him at times. Since then he must have spent hours a day perfecting a left.

He looked almost a finished fighter the other night against Bob Sikes of Arkansas, on the Galento-Baer card. It took him only a little over two minutes to knock Sikes down three times and render him helpless, but in the short time it lasted Comiskey made an undeniable impression.

Sikes brought a brilliant record here and was regarded as a real test for the Jersey hope, but he was completely outclassed.

Sizing al mup as a future opponent for Louis, Pat appears to have what it takes. He has youth, size, hitting power and a surging ambition. None of the others has all of these.

NOVA'S CAREER ENDED

Maxie Baer's youth has fled, and he would have no earthly business getting in the ring with Louis again. Godoy can't hit hard enough. Bob Pastor simply is too small to fight Louis, and so is Billy Conn. Lou Nova's career apparently has been ended by a serious bodily ailment. And that is about the crop.

Comiskey is some six feet three inches tall and superbly built. He weighs 209 pounds now and probably will put on 10 more within a year. He is lithe and loose and has shown both the ability and the willingness to take punishment.

Of the other young hopes, Bill Poland of the Bronx probably is as promising as any. Neville Beech, up from Mississippi, has won a couple of close decisions on the last two heavyweight cards, but made no real impression.

MR. BOSTON SAYS:

half a dozen rounds against any young heavyweight. He would not have the wind.

JOHNSTON . . . I talked with Sharkey in New York the other day, and he is eager to get a crack at Dempsey's chin. There once was a time when I thought Dempsey had a mental edge on Sharkey that would always enable him to beat him. I have changed my mind. I think the Sharkey of today would easily beat Dempsey.

JOHNNY RAY . . . Billy Conn didn't think much of either Baer or Galento. I don't think he would have had any trouble knocking out either of them. Conn is pointing for a bout with Joe Louis for the heavyweight championship. If Billy can pack on a little weight, he will have a chance to win. I don't intend to let Conn box Louis for at least another year. Billy is fighting Bob Pastor at the Polo Grounds on August 13 in his first invasion of the heavyweight division.

JOHNSTON . . . It will be his last as Pastor will knock Conn right into your lap. Pastor is like Sharkey, as great a fighter as he wishes to be. He will be at his best when he meets Conn and he will win. I have got Pastor to agree to go to a special training camp for a month. He was first talking about training at Saratoga which is near his home. I didn't want Bob bothered by too many of his friends, and have got him to agree to go to a camp of my selection. When Pastor trains right, he is unbeatable. After Pastor licks Conn, I shall make life miserable for Louis. Joe will have to meet Pastor again.

BUCKLEY . . . By the time Pastor, Conn, Baer and the rest of them get through boxing Louis, Johnny Skhor will have developed as a leading contender. Skhor is still two years away from being a great fighter, but he is improving with each start. He has won 12 of his 13 professional bouts by knockouts.

BUCK . . . Skhor is a promising looking youngster.

MR. BOSTON . . . I thought Baer got Galento's number in the third round. Up to that point in the bout Max didn't seem to know whether he could beat Galento. Then he poked Tony on the chin with a terrific right hand punch, and Two Ton staggered. I could note the look on Baer's face. He knew from that point that he could beat Galento.

JOHNSTON . . . Baer punched pretty good with his right hand. He kept punching inside of Galento's wide left hook. Max would rally for 20 seconds at a time, and when he barraged he looked pretty good.

Champions Reborn?

Yanks Show Old K.O. Sock

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, July 5 (INS)—If there is anything to that old saying that the teams on top the night of July 4 will meet in the following World Series, then Brooklyn and Cleveland are due to tangle just as they did 20 years ago when those two towns last had a pennant winner.

However, we shouldn't care to risk our other shirt on that proposition with the Reds still hot on the hee's of the Dodgers and the Tigers, Red Sox and Yanks right on the Indians' necks.

The Yanks looked something like their old selves yesterday when they hammered out a pair of victories over the Red Sox, 12-4 and 7-3, and did it by slamming eight home runs.

They are now only five and a half games off the pace, and if that splurge indicates a return to form they will be hard to hold in check through the second half of the race.

BRIDGES WINS

Tommy Bridges pitched the Tigers into first place by taking the first half of a double bill from the Indians, 5-3, but the Clevelanders came back to win the nightcap and top ranking in 11 heats, 2-1.

The Senators climbed out of the cellar at the expense of the Athletics, whom they trimmed, 5-1 and 9-5, and the White Sox had a field day against some very inept pitching and took a pair from the Browns, 7-3, and 8-5.

The Dodgers clung to their one game lead over the Reds by taking a pair from the Giants before a capacity house, 5-1 and 6-1. Curt Davis held the Giants to seven hits in the opener and Vito Tamulis held them to three in the nightcap.

Vito had a perfect game in hand until the eighth—not a Giant reaching first base—but here the Terrymen bunched their three hits for their lone run. The double defeat set the Giants back five full games behind the pace setters.

REDS SNATCH PAIR

The Reds took two from the Pirates, 9-1 and 3-1, as Bucky Walters turned in his 11th victory and Gene Thompson his 10th. Thompson gave only three hits for his decision.

The Bees and Phils split a pair, Blanton taking the opener for the Phils, 4-3, and Sisti's homer putting the second game in the bag for the Bees, 5-4.

The Cubs took the opener from the Cardinals, 4 to 3, behind Larry French, but the Cards got an even break on the day behind Shoun, 5 to 2.

LOOK AT TONY. Here's Tony Cuccinello (remember him?) putting out the wild Brooklyn Basque, Pete Coscarart, in first game of Giants-Dodgers holiday double-header at Polo Grounds. Coscarart was forced out on Pitcher Curt Davis' grounder, Witek to Cuccinello. The Dodgers retained one-game, first-place lead over Reds by taking both ends of twin bill, 5-1 and 6-1.

Red Sox Sag As 2d Half Of Race Opens

will not land in Boston until the present aged combination is broken up and replaced with younger and more active parts.

Jim Bagby goes today against the Senators, who celebrated Independence Day by taking a double header from the A's. And Jim will have to be exceptionally good to win with the support the pitchers have been getting.

While the Senators were celebrating the Fourth in Glorious fashion, the Red Sox were closing a home stand before 29,000 customers at Fenway Park by dropping both ends of a double header to the Yanks. The scores were 12-4, and 7-3.

The Yanks got 11 hits for a total of 29 bases in that first game. Five home runs were included. They were hit by Rolfe, Keller (2) Gordon and Selkirk.

In the second game, the Yanks got 12 hits for a total of 22 bases, including three home runs, two by the youthful catcher Buddy Rosar and one by Gordon.

Herb Hash, who is being used every other day since he showed well against the Yanks in New York and against the Indians in Cleveland, started the first game on the hill for the Sox. He didn't get anybody out. He was relieved by Jack Wilson, who was no better.

Wilson himself was out of there before the end of the second inning, and the score at the time read: Yankees 8, Boston 0. Although Ostermueller pitched respectably after relieving Wilson, the game had been lost before his entrance.

The Sox were in the second game behind Emerson Dickman until the sixth inning. Then Gordon and Rosar connected for successive homers, and you could see the Sox fold up like an accordion.

In the same inning, Foxx stood still and a let a Russo fly drop behind him for a fluke double. Tabor made a two-base wild peg on Crosetti's grounder. Four runs were scored in the inning. Then who should appear on the scene as Dickman's relief but Hash again.

In the seventh Gene Desautels stood behind home plate and watched a foul fall within reach. In the eighth Cronin waved at a Russo hit as it skidded past him.

"We want Carey" chanted 29,000 fans who paid their way into the park expecting to,see the Red Sox try to win.

And so, as we say, the Sox start their second half of the season in the same city they started their first half. But as this second half starts, they are a different band of athletes. They're licked, and they know it.

Bees on Upgrade

Kids Please Stengel

By BILL GRIMES

"Lippy" Leo Durocher and his cocky Dodgers are in town for a four-game series with the Bees, starting with a single game this afternoon.

The Dodgers have won five in a row and are the pacemakers of the National League. They dropped the second game of a double-header to the Bees last Sunday over in Flatbush when Manuel Salvo handcuffed them and Sibby Sisti came through with a three-run circuit clout. But, in the interim, the Brooks have taken two from the Phillies and three straight from the Giants.

MEDWICK LOOSENS UP

"Joe Medwick has been supplying the punch we needed since we started on this road trip," confided Manager Durocher. "As I saw it, Joe was trying too hard to show at his best while we were at home. He was tight but, Mister, he's been plenty loose for the past four days."

After taking the odd decision in a three game series with the Phillies, the Bees arrived home this morning two and a half games out of fifth place. They lost three out of four to the Dodgers in Brooklyn and then split even with the Giants, which gave them four victories against five defeats for the trip.

"On the whole, I'm very well satisfied with the article of ball the Bees played on this trip" declared Casey Stengel this morning, prior to going into a huddle with Pres. Bob Quinn. "We had a fine chance to take three verdicts from the Dodgers but the breaks were against us.

"I'm particularly pleased over the showing of the kids on this trip. It's just beginning to dawn on rival managers and the experts that Ross is a pretty fair country ball player. In fact, they are now proclaiming him the best freshman outfielder in the league.

SISTI'S AVERAGE CLIMBS

"Another very pleasing feature is the all around playing of young Sisti. He is getting the feel of major league ball and with his natural ability and speed I can't see anything but a very bright future for him.

"Three weeks ago, Sisti was hitting for about .150. Today he's 100 points higher and climbing.

"I have one of the youngest clubs in organized baseball. But, mark my word, it's a comer. They'll make mistakes and boot 'em now and then but I can see that the club is showing marked improvement and will be a far better team before the end of the season.

"About the only concern I have at present is my pitching staff. It is spotty. If it rounds into shape, so that I can get four starting hurlers, who are capable of going the distance, we'll give any of the National League teams a real battle."

Fillies Clash In Dustin 'Cap

Tomorrow will be Ladies' Day at Suffolk Downs.

At approximately 5:30 in the afternoon the running strip will be cleared of all horses, colts and geldings, permitting a field of fillies and mares exclusively to step daintily postward in the Hannah Dustin Handicap. There will also be the detail of a $5000 purse to the winner.

Twenty-eight turf queens were originally nominated for the Hannah Dustin. Of this number approximately half failed to stand the gaff of a strenuous campaign, leaving a field of 15 probables in tomorrow's starting parade.

Hagen Willing to Bet $1000 His Team Will Beat Sarazen's

CHITTER CHATTER: If you believe in signs and traditions, get your dough down on the Dodgers and the Indians—they were leading July 4 . . . They sued Signor Galento for his share of the Baer fight, but Tony outsmarted 'em. He sold $13,000 worth of pasteboards at his Orange pub and is holding onto the dough—just about his share, less managers' cuts.

• • •

Those Browns are getting so tough they're even pitching Master Feller against them . . . Bobby Jones will play four exhibitions for the Red Cross, opening at the Lido Club, Long Island, July 13, vs. Horton Smith . . . Alfred G. Vanderbilt, who led the list of winning race hoss owners in 1935, is batting zero so far this year. He hasn't won a two-year-old or a stake event.

FOUL TIPS—Max Baer's horoscope said he was due for an upset in July, and a palmist told him the same thing . . . Walter Hagen has offered to bet $1000 the U. S. Ryder Cup team beats Squire Gene Sarazen's All-Stars in their Red Cross match at Detroit July 16-17. If he wins, Hagen will give the dough to the Red Cross.

• • •

Dizzy Dean's grandma still is urging him to quit baseball and become an old-time revival preacher . . . Can you imagine that? . . . Bill Dickey of the Yanks was feted the other day by the Washington Lions Club.

• • •

TODAY'S GUEST STAR—Dan Parker, N. Y. Mirror: "I think I voice the sentiments of thousands of boxing fans when I express the hope that we have heard the last of this uncouth, unfunny, unskilled, unethical and unspeakable braggart whom Baer so thoroughly deflated . . . Galento dragged boxing from its usual habitat in the gutter into the sewer."

• • •

El Goofy Gomez, who used to toss a knuckle ball in the Pacific Coast League, used it for the first time in the majors while beating Washington the other day . . . When Jackie Hayes (who almost lost his eyesight) returns to the White Sox lineup, he'll wear a special helmet as protection while batting . . . Max Baer has a swell-looking youngster.

• • •

This is the 85th day of the big league baseball season . . . And Buck Newsom of Detroit is undefeated in 84 of them . . . Buck hasn't lost a game since the Browns beat him, 5-1, in the opener.

ATHANASIAN, MAJOR B. PAY $71.40 TO 245 FANS

By TOM SHEHAN

SUFFOLK DOWNS, July 5—Improving in the going, F. S. Trumbull's Major B. lasted to win the second race, a six-furlong claiming event for $1250 platers, in front of M. G. Platt's Crestonian here this afternoon.

Combined with Athanasian, winner of the first race, Major B. brought a $71.40 payoff to the holders of the 245 tickets in the daily double.

The Zacaweista gelding took the lead soon after the start and was able to hang on before the drive of the second horse in the final sixteenth. Timed in 1:15.4, Major B. paid $19.60 in the mutuels.

Crestonian, which finished two lengths in front of W. E. Collins' Singing Slave after making a sensational stretch bid, paid $6.40 to place.

Miss J. Morris' Athanasian, closing through the stretch when he found racing room on the inside at the stretch turn, won his first race of the year, a six furlong claiming event for three-year-olds and upward.

He finished a neck in front of Mrs. T. Christopher's Ghost Train in 1:16.2.

Athanasian broke well, eased back in the early stages while racing on the outside, responded to urging in the stretch and moved up fast in the drive to dispose of Ghost Train in the last few strides. Ghost Train, a forward factor from the start, made a bold bid a sixteenth from the wire, but could not deny the winner's final challenge. Free Again, off slowly, was rushed into contention rounding the turn, lost ground on the outside entering the stretch and closed well. Myrna Lee, broke fast, took command after going a quarter, enjoyed a comfortable lead in the stretch, but weakened in the closing drive. Cordale lost some ground on the stretch. The Jurist, away last, made a bid rounding the turn, but could not better his position in the drive. Modest Manners was never a threat. Raceaway and Blue Cavert had brief speed, then quit.

Daily Double—Athanasian and Major B paid $71.40

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs, purse $1000, for 3-year-olds and up, claiming. Start good from Puett gate, won driving, place same. Went 2:53½, off 2:54½. Winner—F. S. Trumbull's br. g. (4), Zacaweista-Donna B. Trained by A. Hull, Jr. Value to winner—$700, $150, $100, $50. Time—:24, :48 3-5, 1:15 4-5.

Major B., showing improvement in the going, was sent to the front right after the break, opened up a commanding lead on his field rounding the turn and increased his advantage through the stretch. He had to be hard urged to withstand the final challenge of Crestonian in the last few strides and was awarded the photo decision. Crestonian, outrun while racing on the outside in the early stages, moved up fast rounding the turn, bore in slightly about a sixteenth out and was overtaking the winner with every stride at the end. Singing Slave showed good speed from the start, in nearest pursuit of the winner through the drive, and hung on well to the close. Pay Rack, far out of it for five furlongs, closed fast on the outside in the last eight. Dreel could not better his position on the inside in the early running, lost ground entering the stretch. Prospectus forced the pace for about a half mile, then weakened. West Acre trailed the early running, saved ground on the inside entering the stretch, then faltered.

THIRD—Count Cotton (Taylor), 6.00, 3.60, 2.80; Glenbroom (Mearle), 5.80, 3.60; Sun Antioch (Bates), 3.20. Off 3:26½. Also: Prum, Jackinthebox, Our David, Rollsbuzzy, Owaller.

He finished a neck in front of Mrs. T. Christopher's Ghost Train in 1:16.2.

COUNT COTTON WINS

An off track once again moved up Siravo and Petrucci's Count Cotton. He went to the post a favorite in the third race, a six furlong claiming event for $1250 platers, and the Reigh Count gelding was returned a winner by a length and a half in this affair.

Alexander S. Pierce's Glenboom was a charging second behind the winner and a nose in front of Mrs. P. Priddy's Sun Antioch.

Clicking off the distance in 1:15, Count Cotton paid $6 to win.

SOX HAD 'EM—Joe Vosmik, left, and Harold "Pee-Wee" Reese, who faced Bees this afternoon as members of first-place Brooklyn Dodgers. Vosmik is still crashing out those line drives which endeared him to Fenway customers. Reese is the most nimble shortstop in the business, and of late has been hitting home runs. Sox bought Louisville club to get Reese, then for some mysterious reason sold him to Brooklyn without giving him a test.

BLANTON SOLE HOPE OF PHILS

PHILADELPHIA, July 5 (AP)—But for Cy Blanton—castoff of the Pittsburgh Pirates—the Phillies today would be trying to break a 15-game losing streak.

The redheaded right-hander, released by the Pirates a year ago because of a sore arm, is the only Phil pitcher to hurl winning ball since June 21. As a matter of fact, the Phils have won only three of 15 games in that period and Blanton has won them all to show he has apparently recovered the stuff that made him a Pirate star.

Blanton's latest triumph was a 4 to 3 victory over the Boston Bees in the first game of the holiday twin bill yesterday. The victory gave him a record of three wins against one defeat since coming to Philadelphia late in May.

The chunky curve-baller's first starting assignment came against the Cards on June 16. He gave up only five hits in eight innings, but lost 3-1 principally because of poor baserunning by his teammates. He started against the Cubs on June 22, but dislocated his thumb after two innings and left the game. He was ahead, 2-1, at the time.

Blanton beat Pittsburgh, 4-2, on seven hits on June 26 for his first triumph. Four days later he conquered the Giants, 7-4, on eight hits and likewise gave up eight hits in beating the Bees yesterday.

Johnny Shkor Stops Fedzwick

BALTIMORE, July 5—Johnny Shkor scored his 13th knockout in a row when he topped Joe Fedzwick of New York in the first round of their holiday bout here.

Shkor crushed Fedzwick under a volley of left and right-hand punches. It was the second knockout Shohr, who is managed by Johnny Buckley fo Boston, has scored inside of a week.
